DRIVERLESS AUTO PLUNGES
INTO RIVER AND DISAPPEARS

Salesman Had Just Alighted From Car to Call on Customer at 16 Morgan Street.

A Dodge coupe ran driverless into the Mississippi River today at 11 a. m. and apparently was carried away by the current.

William Baker, 4844 Wabasha street, a salesman, was certain he pulled the emergency brake and turned the wheels toward the river
when he stopped to call on a customer at 16 Morgan street, but in a few minutes he looked out a window and saw the car moving.

The street inclines sharply to the river 200 yards off, and the automobile outran Baker. It bumped the curb once or twice, shot under the noses of a team of horses, slid between uprisings supporting the Terminal elevated, crossed the levee and plunged into the river
at the bow of the steamer Dan-dellon, river light tender. It sank from sight immediately. Baker believes the car was carrying a customer, but there was no automobile. It was only two months old and the property of his employer.

LANDSDOWNE PERISHED AS HE PLANNED TO GREET MOTHER

Greenville, O., Where She Lived,
Had Prepared a Gala Welcome.

By the Associated Press.
GREENVILLE, O., Sept. 4.— Greenville went to rest last night in sorrow. The city, anticipating a welcome to one of its noted sons, figured without the master hand of death which struck down Zachary Lansdowne as he sped westward in the Shenandoah, to greet his mother, who lives here. But he never came.

It was to be a gala day for Greenville, more elaborate perhaps than the time a year ago, when Lansdowne and his wife greeted Greenville and waved greetings to his mother.

POLITICAL FOE OF MAYOR

A Samuel Bender, attorney, Republican city committeeman and political foe of Mayor Miller, was fined $30 on a charge of speeding 35 miles an hour Aug. 29, by provisional Judge Stocker, in Police

"The officer is a contemptible

going more than 20 miles an hour.
There was no reason for my arrest."

Motorcycle Officer Klasing said
Bender was going 35 miles an hour and that he had to chase him several blocks to Union and Page boulevards.

Death Occurs at 45—His

1923 to Miss Gloria Morgan.

By the Associated Press.
PORTSMOUTH, R. I., Sept. 4.— Reginald C. Vanderbilt died early today at his country home, Sandy Point Farm, here, as a result of internal hemorrhages.

Vanderbilt had been in fairly good health, members of his household said, up to last night. Shortly after midnight he suffered a hemorrhage, which left him in a weakened condition. About 4 o'clock this morning a second attack occurred which caused his death. He was in his forty-fifth year.

Later it was announced that Vanderbilt had been suffering from a throat infection since Tuesday.
The illness responded to treatment to such an extent that Mrs. Vanderbilt left for New York, where her husband was to join her later for a trip to South America. On Wednesday night it became necessary to call in physicians and last night a specialist on stomach diseases was summoned. Blood transfusion was resorted to when the first hemorrhages developed.

Mrs. Vanderbilt is returning here from a visit to her mother, Mrs.
Cornelius Vanderbilt Sr., at Sandy Point Farm when her son died.

A Noted Horseman.
Reginald C. Vanderbilt, who died today at his country home in Rhode Island, was one of the leading horsemen of the country. He was president of the National Horse show of America, which he organized, and also was president of the American Hackney Horse Society.

He was the youngest son of the late Cornelius Vanderbilt. He inherited $10,000,000 from his father, when 21 years old, and later,
in 1915, he inherited $5,000,000
from his brother, Alfred Vanderbilt, who was lost in the sinking of the Lusitania.

Vanderbilt was the brother of Gen. Cornelius Vanderbilt, of the Countess Laszlo Szechenyi and of Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney.

Reginald Vanderbilt married
Miss Cathleen Nelson, a daughter of Mrs. Frederick Nelson and a niece of Frederick C. Cebhard, in April, 1903. They have one child, Miss Cathleen Vanderbilt, who married Harry C. Cushing III.

Life Obtained Divorce
Vanderbilt and his wife separated and after a period of years she brought suit for divorce, which was granted and the final decree was entered in April, 1920, at Newport. Mrs. Vanderbilt being granted the custody of the child, Mrs.
Vanderbilt married Sydney J. Colford Jr. in January, 1921.

Vanderbilt was married for the second time to Miss Gloria Morgan, daughter of Harry Hays Morgan, Consul-General at Buenos Aires.
Their marriage was in 1923. A daughter, Gloria Morgan Vanderbilt, was born to them 17 months ago. Miss Morgan had played small parts in motion pictures abroad and in this country. She is a sister of Mrs. James Vail Converse and of the Countess Maupas.
Her grandfather, the late Gen.
Judson Kilpatrick, was one time
Ambassador to Chile.

In addition to his activities as a horseman, Vanderbilt was in his earlier days was a noted sportsman and polo player.

WOMAN LOSES
TWO-HOUR FIGHT TO HALT EVICTION

"Bosh" and Bullets Her Answer to Two Constables and Four Policemen Trying to Execute Order.

OPENS FIRE FROM UPSTAIRS WINDOW

Doors Broken Down and Occupant Is Held After Refusing Plea to Leave Peacefully.

It required two constables and four policemen an uncomfortable
two hours yesterday to evict Mrs.
Daisy Camatson, 35 years old, from her home at 2826A Dayton street yesterday upon a landlord's execution.

"When she says she'll shoot, she'll shoot," her husband had knowningly warned and the police say she did shoot—six times before they accomplished the fall of her "castle."

William C. Metz, constable in the justice court at 4006 Chouteau avenue, tells the story:

Two weeks ago a new purchaser
of the property obtained an execution requiring surrender of possession of the flat by Mrs. Camatson.
Accordingly, two days ago, Constable Metz sent a deputy to tell her that if she didn't get out, he would put her out.

"Say," said the deputy on his return, "if you're going to throw that woman out, you can throw her out yourself. She's got blood in her eye. She says she'll shoot any man who tries to put her out."

Fires at Constable.
Constable Metz picked up his hat.
"Come on," he said, "we'll go right now." There was no answer. He knocked several times. Constable Metz began to kick at the door.

A window upstairs was opened.
The belligerent form of a woman, pistol in hand, appeared. Without a word she fired. Constable Metz ducked around to the side of the house. A window flew open there and there was another shot.

Constable Metz drew his own revolver and leveled it at the woman. "I'll shoot you," he said.

The answer was a third shot.
A crowd was gathering and Constable Metz retreated. The Dayton Police Station. "Yes, we know her," the Sergeant said, grimly sympathetic, and he detailed four men to Constable Metz's assistance. The policemen were for conciliation. "Let's get her husband to help us," and the six officers proceeded to the husband's restaurant at 2700 Franklin avenue.

No Help From Husband.
"Oh, no, not me," Stephen Camatson objected. "If she's on the warpath, I don't want to see her.
You've got her mad, and when she's mad, she's mad." And when she's mad, she's mad.

He departed without Con-matson. The police were for soothing. "We will protect you; nothing can harm you," they called through the door. No answer. They assaulted the door. Three shots came from upstairs. One struck a policeman. The other two missed.
They broke the door down.

Mrs. Camatson retreated to the kitchen and locked the door. Constable Metz tried his hand. He had a reputation of being kind and considerate of women, he assured her.

"Bosh!" said a voice on the other side of the door.
"Honest, lady," pleaded Constable Metz. "I don't dare do anything to hurt
my reputation."

"No Man Can Put Me Out."
After several minutes of entreaty, Mrs. Camatson admitted him.

Radio Cabin Fell First.

snapping throughout the hull, and the control cabin was wrenched loose almost simultaneously with the buckling. By this time, the men in the forward part of the ship had clambered up inside and were being carried along in the detached crowd.

Mayer described how Lieut. W.
B. Sheppard, whose body was the last found, had been in the prow,
and that as they drifted along over the hills, Sheppard called out to
J. Schevovitz: "Don't mind me."
Just then he slipped off. Mayer told the Board of Inquiry.

For more than an hour the process drifted around, over hills, coal mines, farmhouses, cemeteries and villages. Twice they circled over the wreckage of the tail of the ship, Mayer said.

The men aboard the free ballooning portion threw out cables, hoping to have them catch so as to bring down the prow. In a walnut tree on a precipitous hillside,
J. McCarthy was dropped. Two farmers began running along the ground beneath the prow, but were afraid to catch hold of the cables, Mayer related. Finally the nose dropped down on the crest of the hill, crashed through a grape arbor
and into a pasture field.

Commander Kraus said it would be useless to attempt to salvage
any of the wreckage for further use. Salvaging even for experimental and study purposes was discarded.

OFFICERS VIEW
WRECK, AGREE
STORM WAS CAUSE

Say Rush of Air After Cabins Fell Buckled Ship—Looting Hampers Investigation.

By the Associated Press.
CALDWELL, O., Sept. 4.—Air
rushing into holes torn in the Shenandoah by the twisting off of the radio and control cabins caused the buckling of the ship and its breaking up into two major parts, in the opinion of the naval board of inquiry that visited the wreckage of the ship's prow today.

Snapping of guy wires at the same time that the cabins were torn away in the gale also served to weaken the structure.

The stress upon the hull of the ship by its rolling and rising and falling in the wind and electric storm are believed to have been responsible for the wrenching loose of the cabins.

Board Views Wreckage.
Commander S. M. Kraus, Lieutenant Commander William Nelson and C. P. Burgess, expert technician on airship construction, all of Lakehurst, N. J., visited the wreckage of the ship's nose in company with Lieut. L. G. Mayer, one of the survivors who landed with that portion 12 miles from where the tail
and the section fell.

In discussing the crash it was agreed among the inquirers that nothing could have prevented the disaster except, perhaps, greater speed, to get away from such a gale. Technical Burgess said that ships had not as yet been devised capable of attaining a speed sufficient to have served the purpose, however.

Radio Cabin Fell First.
The radio cabin dropped first,

SURVIVORS TELL OF LEAPING
FOR LIVES AFTER DIRIGIBLE
BROKE AND SKIMMED TREES

Breaking of Gas Bag Over Control Car, Together With Storm, Held Responsible for Air Tragedy.

By the Associated Press.
PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 4.—The breaking of a gas bag over power car No. 3, the aft starboard car of the dirigible Shenandoah, was held responsible by some of the survivors of the wreck for the tragedy
yesterday in Ohio.

When the 18 survivors, who came by special car from the scene of the wreck, en route to their home station, arrived at Philadelphia at 7:10 a. m. today, some of them
agreed that this accident, in conjunction with the terrific storm, was responsible for the wreck and its ensuing loss of life.

The storm was described by the survivors as a "Western twister."
Some of the men said they had been able to see the storm coming, but that the ship had been powerless
to get out of its way.

The 18 men came on the train in charge of Lieut. Hendley. They were stiff and sore from the leaps
they had made from the airship as it neared the ground. They were grimy and very tired. Few slept either last night or at any time yesterday. A number of them described how they clung to the outer envelope and the framework and worked their way from the top of the airship—almost a hundred feet
—to a hand-hold near the bottom,
where they were able, when the broken sections of the airship dropped near the ground, to let go and drop 10 or 15 feet to safety.

"We had to run for our lives,"
Richard Wilson of Louisville said,
"because the portion of the bag in which we were, the upper portion,
was rolling, madding and twisting
from side to side."

Awakened by Rolling.
Several members of the party
said that not only did the control car fall, but that numbers 4 and 5
power cars fell also a few minutes later. Wilson said the control car must have dropped off when the dirigible was 2000 feet in the air.
He could not figure how high they were when the power car fell away.
Wilson added that he was awakened by the rolling of the Shenandoah.

"It was rolling terrifically fore
and aft, up and down," he said.
"The ship seemed to plunge down
a thousand feet or so. It was also a swift, long descent."

"Then instantly it was jerked upward at an angle of 45 degrees to about 1000 feet or perhaps 6000 feet. That was when I heard the crash. I knew that we were going down and looked back. I could see that we were dropping fast."

"I made a flying leap for the scaling ladder that went from the calk walk to the top of the bag.
Other men all around me, up and down the ship, were climbing the ladders to get away from the dan

HOPE OF FINDING MISSING PLANE ABOUT ABANDONED

Steamer for Hour Follows What Looks Like White Flare but Without Result.

WILBUR CALLS OFF FLIGHT OF PB-1

Aviators Think PB-9 Hit Sea With Wind or Pilots Misjudged Location in Rain.

By the Associated Press.
SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 4.—The Navy radio station here received a report at 3:45 a. m. from the U. S. S. Whippoorwill in Hawaiian waters that what was taken to be a white flare had been seen in the distance and that the ship had steamed for more than an hour in that direction, thinking it might have been a signal from the missing seaplane PB-9, No. 1. Nothing was found, the report said. The report was not officially announced and little hope was held out that it was a signal from the seaplane.

The Navy Department has instructed Admiral Robison to dispatch 18 destroyers that left Samoa Sept. 1 for Hawaii to the search zone to participate in the hunt for the missing PB-9, No. 1 and its crew.

The flight commander here stated that "there is a ray of hope" in the telegram which the Whippoorwill sent that it had seen a white flare and two flares or rockets at 7:10 and 8:10 last night. There were seen in the Kauai Channel, on the far side of the island of Oahu.

By the Associated Press.
HONOLULU, Sept. 4.—Into the limbo of "ships lost at sea without a trace" has probably gone the seaplane PB-9, No. 1, pilot of the navy, and Commander John Rodgers with his four companions, pioneers of naval aviation, who set forth from San Francisco last Monday and disappeared on Tuesday afternoon. More than 48 hours have passed since the plane came down.

Although the search for the missing plane and members of her crew is still proceeding, air station officers have practically given up hope.

New searching detachments, reinforced by the destroyer Reno, are speeding toward Station V, where the Aroostook had her plane in the line of guard ships. Here the searchers will be reorganized to-day. Ships will take a new scouting line at the entrance to Kauai Channel.

Commander Wilbur Van Auten of the Aroostook reported last night that the Aroostook had scouted between longitude 156 to 158:35 and between latitude 23:20 and 24:1 and found no news from any vessel.

Aviators grudgingly express the opinion that one of two things probably happened to Rodgers if the plane is not still afloat. First, that he was unable to turn into the wind, due to the lack of gasoline and was forced to alight with the wind, a highly precarious operation in any sort of a sea, with about one chance in a hundred of landing safely. Second, that he was blinded by the heavy rain squalls to which he referred in his last message and that the aviators, with their clouded goggles, were unable to distinguish rain from the sea, thought they had more "rolling" than they really possessed, ascended slightly and struck the ocean at high flying speed, which would have resulted in a crash and the wreckage.

Some of the ships engaged in the search are running short of fuel and will have to return to port, while the number of airplanes from Maui, assisting, has been reduced to four, one having been forced down last night at Kahului with a broken connecting rod.

Shenandoah's Six Gondolas Which Carried Crew

This view of the Navy's big dirigible shows the suspended compartments in which were housed the power plants, navigating officers and other members of the personnel. The view pictured above has added interest because of the experiences of wreck survivors told in the news today.

I started to walk toward my station when a ship of wind struck us on one side and another on the other side. The ship was forced down. I tried to make my way along the keel, just as the ship came to an almost vertical position and started to rise very quickly. Before I could climb 15 feet more there was a ripping, hissing sound and the big ship broke in two.

"You might realize how fast we came down when I say that before I could turn my head to see what happened I found myself on the top of a tree. As I started to climb down, part of the rigging and wires caught me around the waist and arms and I was dragged about 100 feet by the free end of the ship along the roads and hills.

"I finally managed to free myself and fell about 60 feet. For several minutes I couldn't move. I felt as if nearly every bone in my body was broken and I surely was tickled to death when I got up and found I could walk around."

All Tobin wore was a pair of blue overalls and an undershirt. Spotswood S. Halliburton of Macon, Ga., an assistant engineer officer on the Shenandoah, was in No. 3 gondola, one of the power cars. It was one of the cars that did not fall.

Men Remained at Posts.
"Every man on the ship," he said, "had orders to stand by. The orders were given about four or five minutes before the crash. We had been fighting through the storm for hours and struck into the very point of it at that point. Men in the after power cars No. 1, 2 and 3, remained at their posts, even after the dropping away of the dirigible and the dropping away of the control cars and the two forward power cars. They were still at their engines as the broken after part of the dirigible came close to the ground touching the tops of trees and falling badly from the portals. Then she rose a little."

"The after power cars were wrenched and twisted but not torn loose from their fastenings. By that time we understood the completeness of the disaster and all of the men in the power cars were climbing above the engines to get a hand grip of some kind on the frame of the dirigible."

"As the Shenandoah finally settled, the three rear power cars were twisted and torn away. We were bounced around savagely for several minutes. We had first struck among the tops of some trees."

These slowed up the speed of the airship rather than the part of the airship in which we were riding, and as she bounced down toward the ground some of the men were virtually thrown off; others watched their chance and leaped. It was half dark at the time. We could not see at once that the nose of the airship was missing."

Charles Solar of Indianapolis, machinist's mate, was one of the men carried away in the nose of the airship.

"A Little Cyclone."
"I was just getting out of my bunk when we suddenly spun around in a little cyclone. The airship sank and then bounded upward and the part of the ship in which I was riding broke off."

Commander Rosendahl was with us and we free-ballooned it, gradually getting her down toward the ground until we were able to drop loose. I hurt myself when I fell, but not seriously. No bones were broken."

Ralph Jones, Los Angeles, aviation machinist's mate, said:
"I was in car No. 3. It was about 3:47 Eastern standard time when I received signals for full speed. I got the engine running at 1400 revolutions a minute."

"We were then in the teeth of the storm and I realized the Commander had decided to go with the storm. Forward in cars Nos. 4 and 5, I suddenly heard a ripping noise. We were then caught in the twister. The ship first reared on one end and then on the other. Then it made a terrific and sudden descent, swinging around for five times."

"I again got the signals for full speed ahead. The ship suddenly pitched upward. We rose to about 1000 feet, when the Shenandoah, after being tossed around and around, seemed to collapse all at once.

"The next thing I knew, we struck a hill and the car I was in caught in the top of some trees. I slid off on the side of the hill. I judge I dropped about 35 feet."

"Walked Around in Circles."
"I laid on my face so the car would not strike me as it skimmed over the hill. It then rose in the air again, and, looking around, I saw two of the other men, one a chief rigger and the other the cook. They were about five yards from me and lay as though stunned. In a few minutes they got up and we walked around in circles."

"I attribute my escape from death to my instructions received when I first was assigned to the Shenandoah—to keep my propellers running at full speed. I believe this enabled the section with my car to make a comparatively gentle landing."

The landing of the rear section of the Shenandoah after the cracking of the ship was described by Walter Johnson of Minneapolis, chief machinist's mate.

"The last section of the ship, with two of the cars attached to it, landed on a hillside," said Johnson. "As the cars hit the ground, the bag was above us on the slope. At once the tall began swinging around and bouncing down the slope."

When the car landed I ran up the hill and escaped the bag. But many of the others jumped from the car down the slope. The bag came bouncing after them. As it came toward them, some of them dived beneath it and took a chance on it jumping over them.

"I don't know what happened to the others. As the tall swung around and down the slope they must have run away from it fast enough to escape."

On arrival at Lakehurst the 17 survivors were greeted by more than 500 friends and relatives at the railroad station. The men were permitted to go to their homes. They did not know what happened to their hazardous adventure.

Survivor Says Ship "Spun Up and Tilted Down."
Special to the Post-Dispatch.
CAMBRIDGE, O., Sept. 4.—John F. McCarthy of Freehold, N. J., a surviving member of the Shenandoah's crew, who is in Marietta hospital with a fractured pelvis, describes the accident as follows:

"We were around 600 feet in the air when the ship spun up and tilted down, taking a nose dive and then sagging until she broke in two."

I was changing gas tanks when we were suddenly caught in the storm. The tanks began to shift down the aisle, scattering here and there, and we had to keep out of the way. The tanks slid all around. They bumped and rolled and appeared to have torn the girders away. Before I knew what occurred, I was flying through the air and landed in some treetops with a tangle of ropes.

"I believe I must have been the last person to leave the old ship, as I saw no one else about me as a girder tore away taking me with it."

McCarthy, when found by Charles Ferguson, a motorist, was entangled in several ropes and hanging suspended in a tree on the Nelsonger farm, one mile east of Ava, 10 miles from Caldwell.

"When I married an aviator I knew what chances we were taking. I am glad Zach died with his boots on. I intend to go through life with mine on. When a girl marries an aviator she takes a chance. I have gambled and lost."

A Washington dispatch to the World quotes Secretary Wilbur as saying in regard to Mrs. Lansdowne's comments:

"Commander Lansdowne was allowed to choose his time. His judgment was that it would be safe to make the flight at this time. I would not have permitted the flight against the judgment or protest of Commander Lansdowne."

told a reporter for the New York World in her Lakewood, N. J., home last night that her husband had been protesting since last June against the trip because of the frequency and severity of Ohio thunderstorms.

These protests, she said, were carried directly to Secretary Wilbur, but the latter declined to cancel the orders for the trip, although it was delayed somewhat. Politics, she insisted, caused the Navy Department to go ahead with the flight despite her husband's protests.

"He knew conditions in Ohio," she said calmly. "He was born in Ohio and killed in Ohio—100 miles from the spot where he was born."

Lansdowne, she said, considered the Shenandoah the finest and safest dirigible in the world, but felt that no dirigible could withstand the freak climatic conditions caused by thunderstorms in the Ohio region.

Says Ship Was Perfect.
Mrs. Lansdowne spoke without visible emotion and seemed to have perfect control of herself. She showed considerable knowledge of aviation matters.

"The Shenandoah was perfect and my husband knew it," she said. "But he believed no dirigible was safe in the thunderstorms of the Ohio section. We talked it over many times and he explained to me that the thunderstorms there create currents of air side by side, yet in opposite directions. When a dirigible gets ahead of such currents—strong ones, that is—it simply smashes in two, he said. And I presume that is what happened."

"He said to me yesterday before he left, 'I know we'll hit thunderstorms in Ohio and I hope we've got through all right.' He was very nervous about this trip, and has been protesting to Secretary Wilbur since it was ordered last June, but it was no use. They insisted he should make it for the political effect."

Feeling of Impending Disaster.
"It may sound strange, but I think several of the men had a feeling of impending disaster before the trip started. Flyers are inclined to get a bit superstitious, and last Sunday a New York paper printed a picture with the caption: 'Tragedy at Lakehurst—Wreck of Shenandoah.' It referred to a little toy model—a kid story, but the first time my husband said when he saw it was: 'My God, we're certainly jinxed now.'"

Mrs. Lansdowne has asked that her husband be buried in Arlington Cemetery.

Says She Was Misunderstood.
Mrs. Lansdowne today explained that she had not criticized Secretary Wilbur in her statement of last night.

"I was misunderstood last night," said Mrs. Lansdowne. "Commander Lansdowne was very much opposed to making the flight at this time and he advised the department accordingly. Having been born in the Ohio valley he knew weather conditions out there and had some fear of them."

She is resigned to the death of her husband, as she indicated by these words:

"When I married an aviator I knew what chances we were taking. I am glad Zach died with his boots on. I intend to go through life with mine on. When a girl marries an aviator she takes a chance. I have gambled and lost."

A Washington dispatch to the World quotes Secretary Wilbur as saying in regard to Mrs. Lansdowne's comments:

"Commander Lansdowne was allowed to choose his time. His judgment was that it would be safe to make the flight at this time. I would not have permitted the flight against the judgment or protest of Commander Lansdowne."

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, Sept. 4.—A direct charge that the Navy Department insisted on the Shenandoah's fatal flight despite repeated and vigorous protests from Commander Lansdowne, that it would be unsafe to make the trip, was made last night by Mrs. Margaret Ross Lansdowne, widow of the dirigible's commander.

Without noticeable sign of nervousness or agitation, she calmly prevented by the looting that has occurred. Lieut. Meyer said that when the prow landed it was intact except for the two cabins that had been lost. Today when he escorted the inquirers to the hillside on which the wreckage lay, the framework was stripped of every loose article.

Detachable Parts Stolen.
Covering and cells had all been torn away with the exception of some of the driver cloth over the uppermost part of the ship's ribs. Cables, platforms, joints, gasoline tanks, electric communication wires—everything detachable—was gone.

Looting had stopped today at Sharon, however, an improvised guard of American Legion men in overalls, straw hats, khaki belts and carrying rifles standing watch and keeping spectators beyond the fence.

"The control car," said Commander Klein, "appears to have been completely looted. We are particularly anxious for the return of the logs on which were recorded the record of the flight from the time the Shenandoah left its Lakehurst port, Wednesday afternoon, until the time of the crash early yesterday morning. These records are of absolutely no value to relic hunters. We probably would be glad to give them souvenirs from the ship of a much more substantial nature."

"It was an act of God which we could not foresee," declared Commander Klein.

"There is every indication that there was a terrible windstorm which struck the ship up to 4000 or 5000 feet and that it was twisted and buckled on its way down which caused it to crack in three places. There is no evidence that the ship perished after hitting the ground. It undoubtedly broke apart in the air."

"Officers and men are agreed that Commander Zachary Lansdowne and other members of the crew were in the best possible position to steer the ship out of the terrible storm."

Fourteen dead members of the crew, including Lieutenant-Commander Zachary Lansdowne, lay in the time in Belle Valley, their faces uncovered to the view of the visiting hundreds.

Work of Inquiry Begun.
The cause of death of the 14 men of the Shenandoah crew was officially declared to have been due to an accident in line of duty and not to any misconduct on their part, it was determined by the Board of Inquiry.

The officers, excepting Lieut. Minnick, organized as a board of inquiry and made investigations and inquiries in an effort to officially bring out the cause of the smashup.

The board of inquiry will question officers and men remaining in Caldwell and country folk who witnessed the falling of the giant dirigible, as they probably have seen it crash and the debris scattered about. To further question the 23 survivors. It was indicated that it may be several weeks before the board of inquiry will complete its investigations and arrive at a conclusion as to the cause of the accident.

Twenty-two of the survivors have gone to Lakehurst, N. J., whence the Shenandoah embarked Wednesday afternoon for her voyage into the heart of the continent. Three of the officers and over the crew spent last night in Caldwell, where they were joined by naval officers from Cincinnati, Cleveland and Pittsburgh. Two injured members of the crew are in Marietta Hospital.

Most Fears of Storms.
Nothing could have saved the dirigible in its battle with the storm, according to the comments of all members of the crew. Neither was it any fault of the ship, in their opinion. The disaster was the result of the most feared of storms to an aviator, a line squall, the result of the clash of hot and cold currents of air.

Lieut. Charles E. Rosendahl, who came into command of the crew after the death of Lieutenant-Commander Lansdowne and Lieut. J. H. Hancock, declared that nothing could have saved the Shenandoah and that human hands could not have fashioned a ship to live through the ordeal.

Navy officials are at Marietta aiding in the care of the injured men, Chief Gunner Raymond Cole of Lima, O., and Riggar John F. McCarthy of Freehold, N. J., whose injuries are believed to be not fatal.

Better protection from the elements must be the goal of further dirigible development as the result of the Shenandoah disaster. The opinion of Col. C. G. Hall, U. S. A., official observer aboard the ship. He said he believed the accident was no reflection on the crew.

"Better communication might have saved us," he declared. "Scientific men who study the movement of storms might have warned us and aided us in averting the disaster."

Lieut. Rosendahl made positive denial of rumors that the ship was flying too near the ground and that its gondolas caught on the tree tops causing the disaster.

Other officers have concurred in the assertion that the ship was at an altitude of at least 3000 feet when it was struck by the squall.

The survivors were unanimous in asserting that the fact the gas chambers were filled with helium was all that prevented an explosion. Reports that lightning had struck the ship and was partly responsible for the crash were denied by survivors and witnesses of the catastrophe.

Abruptly Shot Upward.
Officers of the dirigible, explaining the tragedy, said the ship encountered a severe windstorm over Cambridge, strong headwinds hold-

Text of Official Report On Wreck of Shenandoah

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.

By the Associated Press.
A preliminary report on the Shenandoah disaster was received by the Navy Department last night from Lieutenant-Commander C. E. Rosendahl, senior surviving officer. The message said:

"Mild storm suddenly followed by violent line squall subjected ship to enormous uncontrollable angle strains and rapid vertical ascent, resulting in ship's structure breaking in two at about 7000 feet at vicinity of frames 130 and 90. Control very quickly wrenched free in air, undoubtedly precipitating occupants. Forward wing cars wrenched from ship's structure in air."

"Forward section ship free ballooned approximately one hour with seven occupants. McCarthy being knocked out of ship by free in landing. Mid-ship section crashed with three occupants, only Gunner Cole being injured in landing. Injuries not serious. Aft section crashed, but landed 17 occupants safely."

"Forward section of ship landed at Sharon, about 10 miles east of other sections, which landed at Ava. Probably eight casualties from radio and control car. Probably three casualties from keel and three from forward wing cars."

"Sections of ship were deflated by hand completely and anchored as well as possible. Deputy Sheriffs and American Legion guarding property until arrival of troops from Columbus. Accurate identification of dead completed."

"Lieut. Hendly, with survivors, left this afternoon and should arrive Lakehurst Friday morning. Rauch Meyer, two chief petty officers and myself remaining here as long as necessary. Lieut. Wiley arrived this afternoon from Detroit and will remain while needed."

"Personal effects all hands salvaged from ship. No fire during or after disaster. In my opinion, value of salvageable material is almost negligible."

uffered when thrown from the ship when it crashed. The body of Lieut. W. B. Shepard, who must have been in the mid-section, was found in a hedge alongside a creek on the farm of Charles Nieswanger, a mile or more away from the main part of the wreck. Clutched in his hand was a piece of rope, which evidently had given away when the crash came.

"Ordinary Local Thunderstorm" Responsible, Says Weather Man.
By the Associated Press.
COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 4.—An "ordinary local thunderstorm," probably a miniature affair compared to the hurricane the Shenandoah rode out at Lakehurst some months ago," was responsible for the disaster, W. H. Alexander, United States Weather Bureau observer here, announced.

Alexander, who went to the scene of the crash, said the storm could not have been forecast and that the dirigible could not have been warned of its presence.

Alexander reported that he found no evidence of a storm other than the wreck itself, that no trees were broken and that corn standing in the fields nearby was uninjured by the wind.

This condition indicated, he said, that air currents were more violent at higher altitudes than at the surface of the earth. The storm was part of a disturbance attending passage of a "low pressure area" southeastward over the Great Lakes region and numerous thunderstorms of local extent were reported from that district during the night, Alexander said.

"Lightning might have struck the dirigible," he declared, "al-

Army trucks, official army cars and army motor cycles, some of them with side-car passengers, arrived during the night to augment the groups finding work to do here and there. With the khaki-clad men were naval officers, some of them in blue uniforms, some of them in white.

Lieutenant's Thrilling Experience.
Lieut. A. B. Anderson probably had the most thrilling experience. He grabbed a girder when the control cabin broke away. He clung to this girder and finally managed to straddle it. His back was to those who were up in the nose and he was unable to turn around and crawl up the girder to a most safe position in the hull. A rope was thrown to him by Lieut. R. G. Meyer. By reaching over his shoulder Anderson managed to turn around on the girder and crawl to the nose with the others aboard that section.

Lieut. C. E. Bauch was in the main section when it crashed to the ground. He says there was no undue hurry or concern aboard. The men, he said, hurriedly realized their predicament and did everything they could to save the ship. Bauch has a cut on the leg.

Lieut. Rosendahl made positive denial of rumors that the ship was flying too near the ground and that its gondolas caught on the tree tops causing the disaster.

INCOME TAX PAID BY MALLINCKRODT TRUST IS $96,000

In Addition, Three Members of Family Are Listed for Total of More Than $63,000.

JACOB L. BABLER PAYS $42,000

Four Members of Davis Family Are Assessed on Incomes of More Than $25,000.

THE fourth installment of St. Louis taxpayers whose 1924 income exceeded $25,000 containing 600 names, will be found on Page 4 of this edition.

In addition to individual income taxes amounting to $63,338.38, payable this year by three members of the Mallinckrodt family, the Edward Mallinckrodt Trust is listed for an income tax payment of $96,745.83.

The tax payable by the Mallinckrodt Trust appears in the list furnished for publication today by the Collector of Internal Revenue, constituting the latest installment of 600 names, out of a total of 2500 taxpayers whose income was more than $25,000 in 1924, on which taxes are paid this year in the Eastern Missouri district. The number now made public has been 2100, and the remaining 400 will be made public tomorrow. The list shows only the amount of tax payable, and not the net income on which the tax is assessed.

Purpose Not Stated.

The Mallinckrodt Trust is handled by the St. Louis Union Trust Co., but no statement as to its purpose could be obtained from the trust department of the company. At the Mallinckrodt Chemical Works, it was stated only that the trust has no connection with the business of the chemical company.

Edward Mallinckrodt, now 80 years old, is president, and his son, Edward Jr., is vice president of the chemical works, a $5,000,000 corporation. The father's income for this year, as shown in the list printed yesterday, was $11,125.27, and the son's was $45,754.11, while the tax of Mrs. Elizabeth Mallinckrodt, wife of Edward Mallinckrodt, is $645.2.

The elder Mallinckrodt has given in recent years, $500,000 to Harvard University, for a chemical building, and $100,000 to Washington University. Both father and son are now in the East.

Taxes of Davis Family.

Four members of the Davis family, whose property interests are handled from the office at 220 Security Building, are named in today's list of payers on income of more than $25,000. They are Samuel C. Davis, who is scheduled to pay $312.88; Samuel C. Davis Jr., $1972.40; Alta Davis, $1785.93; and Maria J. Davis, $1333.23. The payments of Dwight F. Davis, assistant and acting secretary of War, and of his wife, Mrs. Helen Davis, have been shown previously. The number of large payments is less in today's list than in those printed yesterday and the two days previous, but today's tabulation contains many well-known names. him to the kitchen. She seated herself, pistol in hand.

"No man can put me out," was her opening of negotiations.

"But, madam," the Constable began, "we are following the due process of law."

"I know the due process of the law," was the interruption. "I should have three notices by the Sheriff. A lady's home is her castle."

The deputy and two policemen stood by during the discussion. When it seemed to have no logical termination, the deputy inquired:

"Well, boss, what will I do?"

"Go ahead," Constable Metz ordered. "The deputy started to leave the room. Mrs. Camtson sprang toward him, raising her pistol. The police then disarmed her. She was arrested, charged with assault to kill and later released on a $1000 bond, returnable next Friday. She was charged with carrying a dangerous weapon which was issued today.

Mrs. Camtson today gave a different version. She fired only one shot, she said, and that was accidental, when she was getting the pistol in a bedroom. She declared that the officers did not make clear their intention or their mission. Both her eyes were discolored and she said that the police were responsible. The police denied her assertion that they had beaten her.

DEATHS OF FOUR PERSONS TRACED TO HEAT WAVE

Frank Hammell, 40, Real Estate Dealer, Found Dead in Bed After Retiring in Good Health.

HOTTEST SEPTEMBER NIGHT IN 26 YEARS

Minimum Temperature Was 81 Last Night and Hundreds Sought Relief in the Parks.

The deaths of four persons yesterday, from causes attributed to the excessive heat, were under investigation by the coroner today.

Frank Hammell, 40 years old, a real estate dealer, was found dead in bed by relatives at his home, 609 Kingshighway Park, in the morning. He apparently retired in good health. It was reported, after entertaining friends in the evening.

Mrs. Blanche Koch of 2751 Allen avenue, returning to her home at 6:15 p. m., found her mother, Mrs. Mary Willington, 55 years old, sitting in a rocking chair, apparently asleep. Investigation disclosed she was dead.

An investigation of the non-appearance for two days of Frank A. Rehm, 68 years old, a guest in a hotel at 4919 Natural Bridge avenue, caused employees to investigate. In the afternoon, and Rehm was found dead in bed. Police were informed he was a widower, with a son, Norman F. Rehm, living in Evanston, Ill.

A man identified as James Crane, 55 years old, was found dead in his bed in a hotel at 117 Morgan street, in the morning.

The man who suffered heat prostration in a court room at the Courthouse, Tuesday, and died next day at the City Hospital, was identified yesterday as William Morgan, 65 years old, who lived with relatives at 5525 Barmore avenue. He was seen to collapse by Joseph Rupert, work of the court, who called a taxicab, and took the stricken man to the hospital. His death and that of two others, a painter and a laborer, were reported by police yesterday as attributable to the heat wave.

St. Louisans were decidedly uncomfortable last night, as the minimum temperature was 81, the hottest September night in 26 years. There was little breeze, and hundreds sought relief in the parks.

Water Used Yesterday 15,000,000 Gallons Above Daily Average.

The Municipal Water Department reported 108,400,000 gallons of water were used yesterday, an increase of 6,000,000 over the previous day and 13,000,000 more than the daily average.

Naturally, many persons sought relief at swimming pools. The municipal pools closed for the season on Aug. 31, but large attendance was reported at the Coliseum, Forest Park Highlands and other privately operated pools.

Low pressure deprived residents of Normandy, St. Louis County, of water from 11 a. m. to 9 p. m. yesterday. The lack of pressure was attributed by the West St. Louis Water and Light Co. to the extraordinary amount of water used for sprinkling lawns and gardens during the hot spell.

TWO NEW TRAFFIC RULES TO GO INTO EFFECT SEPT. 15

Parking Near Union Station Entrance Prohibited—Regulations Governing St. Charles Changed.

Two new traffic regulations, ordered yesterday by the Traffic Council, will go into effect Sept. 15.

The first makes St. Charles street a one-way street for westbound traffic from Third to Fourteenth streets. Heretofore westbound traffic only has been in effect from Third to Ninth streets.

The second order prohibits parking from the front entrance of the Union Station to Eighteenth street at all times. Parking for more than an hour on Market street between the front entrance of the Union Station and Twentieth street also is prohibited.

GERMANS EXPRESS REGRET OVER LOSS OF U. S. AVIATORS

News Bulletins Carry Full Details of Catastrophe to Sympathetic Public.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, Sept. 4.—The destruction of the American naval dirigible Shenandoah brought expressions of extreme regret among the Germans. The German public knows what a dirigitable accident means, since this country, the home of Zeppelin construction, has lost several in storms.

News of the catastrophe was posted on the bulletin boards in front of the newspaper offices, and the successive dispatches giving the details and showing the full extent of the loss were eagerly scanned by crowds.

The morning papers agree in stating that the German people will sympathize with America probably more than any other nation, because of their interest in this form of aviation.

Hugo Eckener, director of the Zeppelin works, and builder of the Los Angeles, the Shenandoah's sister ship, especially regretted the loss to the United States of such a number of experienced fliers.

"The accident," he said, "removes a number of exceedingly valuable technicians of American aerial science, among them several able teachers and promising students."

SHOT CHASING NEGRO WHO KIDNAPED GIRL

Chauffeur Fired on Crowding Machine Containing Daught-ter of New York Merchant.

By the Associated Press.

MONT CLAIR, N. J., Sept. 4.—John Sandin was shot and critically wounded at Little Falls today when attempting to rescue Mary Dally, 6 years old, from her play in Edgemoor Park and chase her into the Orange mountains.

Mont Clair police ordered a search for Raymond Pierce, a negro chauffeur employed by James Hannon, owner of a Cedar Grove garage, who informed them that Pierce took a new car from the garage yesterday and did not return. The number of the license plates on the missing automobile correspond to those on the kidnaper's automobile.

Sandin is a chauffeur employed by Mrs. Joseph Bower. She caught a glimpse of the kidnaper's automobile as it passed her home and heard the Dally child scream. She called to Sandin, who leaped in the Bower car and pursued the kidnaper's machine for 10 miles through Montclair, Upper Montclair, Little Falls and West Waterbury, where the kidnaper was shot.

Poses were organized to search for the kidnaper.

This means that, if a man pays $1700 tax, his income cannot have been below $25,000. The figures now being made public show only income tax paid, and do not show the net income, after deduction of exemptions and losses, forming the basis of which the tax is assessed. The table is computed on the basis of a married person without dependents. But in the case of large incomes, family exemptions make only a small relative difference.

SECURITY FOR TAX DELINQUENTS SOON

Names of 13,200 Who Failed
to File 1924 Returns May Be Disclosed Oct. 1.

Post-Dispatch Bureau.
20-23 Wyatt Building.
WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—President Coolidge's renewed recommendations for repeal of income tax will be backed unitedly by Treasury officials who say the second disclosure of taxpayer lists has shown conclusively
the evils in the system.

The Treasury reports that publicity means only waste of time and money, furnishes no clues to tax dodgers and does not even supply the idly curious with anything more than a remote idea of true names of individuals or corporations.

Treasury chiefs are emphatic in denunciation of the publicity feature of the law, the more so that they have gone through it for a second time. They say that there is no single case in which the Treasury has been put on the track of tax evaders or detected by the publication of the names of those who have filed returns and the amounts paid.

To Add to List of Dodgers.
The Treasury every year makes a roundup of tax delinquents and publicity has been of no avail
in this connection, though it reveals that names of delinquents become available to the public. The names of some 13,200 individuals who had not filed returns of their 1924 income by March 15 are to be disclosed probably on the first of next month. The delinquent will be added to each month as the roundup progresses.

But in every case the Treasury covered the delinquency unaided by the publicity features of the law, which only serves to make known publicly the names of the taxpayers after they have been detected. And in many cases injustice is likely owing to publicity being given to those who, while they were late in making returns, were not guilty of various legitimate reasonable excuses in majority.

Bootleggers in Majority.
Bootleggers compose a large part of tax dodgers, the Treasury reports, and they are more often down through their bank accounts, made to turn over heavy fines and in some cases sent to prison after prosecutions under the law. It is almost impossible to distinguish between those who ought to defend the Government and those who were guilty of doing worse than delay or overpaying Secretary Mellon, under-Secretary Winston and other Treasury officials have repeatedly emphasized that the tax lists are meaningless insofar as providing any gauge of personal or corporate incomes is concerned.

It will be able now to fortify objections to the publicity feature by showing that it has interrupted normal work in the inter-revenue agencies throughout the country, caused a tremendous drain, both in time and money and served no useful purpose so far as the Treasury can discover.

LAST SAILING OF LOST ERICKSON EXPLORERS

MacMillan Meets Man Who Entertained the Arctic Boat Party.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—Further indication that the Lief Erikson expedition of 1914 had "sailed from its last port" was contained in a radio message from Donald B. MacMillan, received yesterday by the National Geographic Society.

The party was headed by William Nutting, who sailed from Norway in the spring of last year with three companions in the 40-foot boat, Lief Erikson, to follow the Viking trail to the United States by the way of Iceland and Greenland. They reached Iceland safely and sailed in August, 1924, for Greenland and Labrador. No further word was heard from them and it was feared they were lost in a storm.

The message said Commander MacMillan had discovered, upon the landing of the Bevo in at Holstenborg, Greenland, Tuesday, the man who entertained Nutting during the Erikson party's stay at Julianehaab. He was O. C. Rasmussen, former Deputy Governor of that place, and the retiring Governor of Holstenborg. After discussing their plans and hopes with Gov. Rasmussen, the Erikson party left for Battle Harbor, Labrador, the message said, and after three days' sailing a strong gale set in. The party never again was heard from.

The explorer's message added that the Peary had rejoined the Bowdoin at Holstenborg. The latter was scheduled to leave at daybreak today for Sukker-toppen, 100 miles to the south, just below the Arctic Circle, a new port of call for all the members of the expedition. The Peary, he said, would leave tomorrow morning to join the Bowdoin and the two will proceed to Godthaab together.

Robbers Kill Storekeeper.
Special to the Post-Dispatch.
JACKSONVILLE, Ill., Sept. 4.—William Steele, proprietor of a general store at Nortonville, 16 miles northwest of here, was shot and killed last night by two robbers. Steele was closing his place of business when the men struck him over the head. While Steele lay on the ground, the men fired several shots into his body and escaped with $500, which they took from his pocket.

NAVY UNCERTAIN ON FUTURE POLICY AS TO DIRIGIBLES

Wreck of Shenandoah May Lead to Closing of Station at Lakehurst—Wilbur to Consult Experts.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—The loss of the dirigible Shenandoah apparently has thrown the Navy's whole future policy with respect to lighter-than-air craft development into a state of uncertainty.

Out of this may come a decision to close the Navy's air station at Lakehurst, N. J.

Secretary Wilbur is now considering the best course to pursue and has a definite plan in mind, but will discuss the matter with naval experts before announcing a decision.

The collapse of the Shenandoah, following the failure to find trace of the missing PN-9 No. 1 plane in the attempted non-stop flight to Hawaii, has not broken the Navy's determination to carry forward aircraft development to the utmost, but Secretary Wilbur has decreed that the rewards must be equal to the risk.

He therefore has ordered the plane PB-1, which was planning to hop off from San Francisco for Hawaii today in the wake of the missing plane, to abandon the effort. Unless positive reasons develop to warrant it, he said, the flight will not be made.

"Enough Trouble for Awhile." "We have had enough trouble for awhile," the Secretary said. "And we don't want to hazard the lives of other men until we have some definite reason for doing so."

As its third reverse in several weeks, the Navy is also contemplating now the failure of its planes to achieve their major mission with the MacMillan expedition. From all of these, however, Secretary Wilbur draws the conviction that in the Atlantic and Pacific oceans the United States has a bulwark of defense of which there need be little fear of penetration by present-day enemy aircraft operating from an overseas base.

The Navy Department already had under consideration a future program with respect to dirigibles and the Los Angeles and Shenandoah.

doah in particular before the disaster to the latter ship. How far this will affect the program, not only in its bearing on the problems of engineering science involved, but as regards the attitude of Congress, remains to be developed.

The Secretary declined to say whether the Lakehurst station would be closed, but no other official denied that this step was in prospect.

As to the Los Angeles, now left as the Navy's only dirigible, Wilbur said the plan in mind for her would not be affected by the loss of the Shenandoah. Since the proposal to lease her for commercial operation

no definite offer has been received, even if one would be considered now after loss of the Shenandoah. There is the possibility that she may be further employed by the Navy, not as a military craft, but in such ways as are permissible in further determining the Navy's program as to dirigibles.

Whatever decision is reached as to the Lakehurst station and the Los Angeles, there will be a period of enforced inactivity for both of several months at least. The loss of the Shenandoah leaves on hand only about half enough to inflate the Los Angeles.

POISON PLOT AGAINST KING BORIS DOUBTED

Bulgarian Minister to Paris Convinced Statement From Sofia Is Baseless.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Sept. 4.—The Bulgarian Minister said today he was convinced that a report that King Boris had been poisoned was baseless. He added that in several dispatches he had just received from Sofia no reference was made to such attempt to kill the King.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 4.—Confirmation still is lacking of a Rome report that another attempt on the life of King Boris of Bulgaria has been made—this time by placing typhus bacilli in his food. Twice during April plots to do the monarch to death were uncovered. While driving his automobile toward Sofia, the capital, the machine ran into an ambush and was fired upon. Two persons in the car were killed and another wounded. A bullet carried away part of the King's mustache. Earlier in the month it was reported that a store of bombs had been found beneath the palace and there with the purpose of blowing it up.

According to the present Rome report, Boris is critically ill at Varna, on the Black Sea, and physicians have been hurriedly dispatched there to attend him. The story, published in the Giornale d'Italia, attributes to the King's sister, Princess Eudoxie, the statement that the typhus bacilli were found in a dish of dessert which had been made for the King. The cook, it was said, had been bribed by the Bulgarian Military League to administer the poison through the King's food.

Although the Giornale d'Italia failed to give the source of its story, it asserted that the persons engaged in the plot to kill Boris were seeking to retaliate for the King's refusal to sign death warrants for several communists convicted of treason. Recent dispatches from Bulgaria have recorded the aversion of Boris to the execution of the death penalty. His refusal to sign the death warrants of the persons convicted of blowing up the Sveti Kral Cathedral, Sofia, in which 166 persons were killed, created much excitement. He finally put his signature to the documents, however, and the convicted persons were executed.

DOCTOR CONFESSES NARCOTIC THEFT TO SATISFY OWN HABIT

Edward L. Mize Signs Confession That He Looted Drug Store Adjoining His Office.

Dr. Edward L. Mize, who has offices at 1196 North Vandeventer avenue, was arrested today and signed a confession that he has been systematically stealing narcotics from a drug store adjoining his office, to satisfy his own craving for drugs.

Dr. Mize moved to his present offices in July and formed an acquaintance with the proprietor of the pharmacy, which is on the northeast corner of Vandeventer and Finney avenues. He was a frequent visitor to the store. Early in August the proprietor discovered his stock of narcotics was being looted, and he notified Chief Narcotic Inspector Thompson. Dr. Mize was watched, and his arrest today followed.

In his confession, Dr. Mize states that he is a licensed physician in Missouri, but is not authorized to prescribe narcotics, and therefore resorted to thievery to obtain them. He said he had taken the "cure" for drug addiction four times, but his craving continued. He resided at 4654 Washington boulevard.

A warrant charging illegal possession of narcotics has been applied for.

MAN KILLS GIRL OF 13. THEN ENDS HIS OWN LIFE

St. Paul Man, 25, Creeps Into Second-Floor Bedroom, Where Child Slept.

By the Associated Press.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Sept. 4.—Nick Nastuck, 25 years old, crept into the second-floor bedroom of 13-year-old Genevieve Santoski here early today and fired two shots into the body of the sleeping girl, killing her. He then killed himself with a shot through the head.

TOKIO'S BUSY CAT CATCHER

TOKIO, Aug. 18.—An enterprising individual arrested in Tokio has confessed to the trapping and killing of more than 4000 cats. The skins, he says, bring him a little, but, according to the police or the story published in a vernacular newspaper, he caught the cats because catgut has a ready sale in Tokio for the stringing of the "vampires," a part of the grala's stock in trade. In this way the despoiler of happy hearths says he received more than two yen (nominally $1) per cat from the trophies of his hunt. It is related that he told how he bought live sparrows for ten sen (5 cents) a sparrow, with one of which tied to the end of a string he could usually catch three or four cats before his "bait" was lost. This accounts for the difficulty experienced in keeping a pet cat for any length of time in the residence section of Tokio.

13 Cholera Cases at Yokohama. TOKIO, Sept. 4.—Thirteen cholera cases have been reported at Yokohama. Authorities are vaccinating a thousand persons to prevent a spread of the disease. It is reported that officials plan to mobilize reservists in a campaign against the malady.

Guy Thompson in Bar Council. Guy Thompson, St. Louis attorney and former president of the Missouri Bar Association, was elected a member of the general council of the American Bar Association at the general sessions of the convention in Detroit Wednesday night.

Prisoners' Jail Records Missing. By the Associated Press. CHICAGO, Sept. 4.—Sheriff Hoffman told Federal officers yesterday that part of the jail records of Terry Druggan and Frank Lake, Federal prisoners in the Cook County Jail for beer running, were lost. The Federal officials are conducting a rigorous investigation into the life of Lake and Druggan in the jail, with special reference to their unusual liberties. Jailer Wesley Westbrook was dismissed by Sheriff Hoffman last week, after publication of reports that the two prisoners enjoyed nights out at the jail and other unprecedented liberties.

Kentucky Congressman Dies. By the Associated Press. RED ROLLING SPRINGS, Tenn., Sept. 4.—Robert Y. Thomas, Democratic Congressman from the Third Kentucky District, died here last night. Mr. Thomas has been in Congress since 1903.

AMMONIA FUMES ROUT 50 FROM APARTMENTS

Six Persons Overcome* and Woman Is Injured in Leap From Window.

The 90-family Valentino Apart-ments, 605 Clara avenue, were thrown into confusion, and its tenants discomfited by ammonia fumes, following the explosion of an ammonia tank, part of a refrigeration plant in the basement, at 1:30 p. m. yesterday.

There was no fire, but the Fire Department was summoned, and firemen and policemen explored the corridors of the building, leading to safety many who had lost their way and were gasping for breath.

During the excitement Mrs. William Miller, 33 years old, leaped from a window of her second-story apartment to the lawn, suffering injuries to her arms and legs. She had become alarmed at the explosion and fumes.

Arthur Madies of St. Charles, a mechanic, had been summoned to repair the tank and was approaching it when it exploded. He was overcome by the fumes, but revived on the spot. Others who were overcome, and revived at St. Luke's Hospital, were: Mrs. Maud Linz, 28, and her son, William, 2; Mrs. Elsa Sahr, manager of the Valentino Turkish baths; Richard Enlow, janitor; A. Katzung, engineer, of 2909 Texas avenue.

The explosion forced occupants of 50 apartments to leave the building, and several women became hysterical. The damage was estimated at $500.

"IRREPROACHABLE BALANCE" PROMISED BY CAILLAUX

Proposes to Cover Deficit of 3,400,000,000 Francs by Direct Taxation.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Sept. 4.—An "irreproachable balance" in the budget of 1926 is promised by M. Caillaux. In the preamble to the budget bill which will come before the Chamber of Deputies as soon as it reassembles early in October.

M. Caillaux calculates that increased expenditures and decreased receipts will result in a deficit of 3,400,000,000 francs, which the Minister proposes to cover by direct taxation only.

He will increase the income tax, making "fortune's favorites" pay a higher rate. He suggests a progressive tax on incomes from invested capital, bringing the average to 40 per cent income tax on the largest fortunes.

"Sudden and unjustified profits" are to help cover the deficit. War damages are to be revised, excessive indemnities will repay a percentage to the amortization fund, which will receive refunds by profiteers and reparation payments by Germany, with which to pay the costs in the devastated regions and the installments on the interallied debts.

Resinol completely

Entriken, Pa., March 4.—"Last summer I had a skin affection on my face, hands and arms. It kept spreading until I could not shave and hated to be seen in public. The itching was very annoying and nothing I tried gave me any relief. A friend recommended your Resinol Ointment and I bought some at once. The first application gave me relief, but I continued using it freely and in a very short time the itching disappeared and the trouble was completely cured. Needless to say, I have great faith in "Resinol" for skin disorders." (Signed) J. H. Letterman.

DETECTIVE SUSPENDED OVER AN EX-CONVICT'S REVOLVER

Frank C. Allen Failed to Explain How Police Weapon Got in Possession of Fred Burke.

Detective Frank C. Allen was suspended yesterday when he failed to explain how a police revolver, which records indicated was his, came into the possession of Fred Burke, a former convict. The technical charge was the making of a false report.

Last Wednesday county authorities raided a saloon at Creve Coeur Lake, arresting Burke after they had found the police revolver in his room. This was reported to the police, who looked up the number on the weapon, finding it had been issued to Patrolman John McCormack of the Newstead District. McCormack declared he had sold the gun to Detective Allen, the record of sale and permit to carry in the Sheriff's office corroborating his statement.

Yesterday Allen was called before Chief of Detectives Kaiser and, upon making out a report declaring he had no knowledge of the revolver found in Burke's possession, was suspended. Allen had been assigned to the McKinley Bridge.

Burke is under bond, charged with aiding in the payroll robbery of the United Railway officers three years ago, in which $34,000 was taken.

WIFE LEFT WITHOUT CAUSE, AUTO SALESMAN ALLEGES

Rozier Wickard, Former Colonel on Gov. Hyde's Staff, Sues for Divorce.

Suit for divorce was filed yesterday by Rozier Wickard, automobile salesman and formerly a Colonel on Gov. Hyde's staff, against Mrs. Fannie W. Wickard, 5574 Pershing avenue, charging desertion. The petition sets out that Mrs. Wickard left her husband, without cause, April 10, 1934, and has remained apart since.

Wickard's marriage on Feb. 7, 1922, followed two weeks after his arrest on a charge of transporting 20 cases of whisky, which he said was to be used in celebrating the nuptials. Subsequently he was fined $100. They separated in January, 1933, which was followed a month later by a suit for divorce, filed by Mrs. Wickard, in which she complained that he pawned a solitaire ring belonging to her and retained the money. That suit was dismissed.

CURE CREDITED AT SHRINE OF NEWLY CANONIZED SAINT

Physician For Canadian Family Certifies to Change in Condition of Child.

By the Associated Press.

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask., Sept. 4.—A statement by the physician attending the family of Colin LePage of Proudhomme, Sask., received here certified the cure of a daughter of LePage, aged 3 years. The child had been taken to a shrine at Wakaw, 50 miles south of here, to St. Theresa of Lisieux, France, established after the saint was canonized last May.

An operation last year failed to cure a serious affection of an ear of the child. At the shrine the LePage family prayed nine days. On the ninth day the cure appeared. The physician's statement did not refer to the trip to the shrine. On a return visit at the shrine the family rendered thanks to St. Theresa.

MUSSOLINI, FEELING FINE, SAYS SUCCESSOR IS NOT YET BORN

By the Associated Press.

ROME, Sept. 4.—Premier Mussolini is so confident of his physical condition that he recently remarked he "could guarantee that his successor was yet to be born." Roberto Farinacci, secretary of the Fascist party, told a meeting of Fascist Senators and Deputies yesterday.

Signor Farinacci related the incident, he said, to illustrate the "obvious fact that the Fascist are here to stay a long time and are going ahead relentlessly to totally insert our revolution into the state," whatever action was required to reach this end would be taken without fear or favor, he said.

He advised the members of the opposition that all effective discussion concerning the rotation of Ministries or Governments really concerned only Fascism.

CHINESE KILLED, 2 SONS SHOT

New York Slayers Believed to Be Banton that the tong would not renew its activities.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 4.—Tong warfare broke out again last night in Chinatown with the killing of a Chinese laundryman and the wounding of his two sons. The dead man was said to be a member of the On Leong Tong and his assailants, the police believe, were gunmen of the rival Hip Sing tong.

Gang Marquong 10, was shot to death while working in his laundry. His two sons, You, 19, and Gouge, 17, were seriously wounded by their two assailants.

The shooting, police believe, were acts of vengeance taken by the Hip Sing tong for the killing of one of its members by an On Leong man last night, despite the promise made to District Attorney Banton that the tong would not renew its activities.

19 WARRANTS DENIED POLICE AFTER RAIDS

Assistant Prosecutor Bases Refusal Mainly on Failure to Obtain Search Warrants.

Police yesterday applied for 22 warrants against persons arrested in liquor raids. Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Pania rejected the applications in all but three cases, mainly because the raids had been made without search warrants.

Application was made by police for 18 search warrants, and nine were granted. The warrants were issued when the police would swear they knew where liquor was, and were refused when police merely had suspicions.

Two special officers from the Page Boulevard District were disposed to swear they knew liquor could be had at the saloon of Michael J. Bilgeri, 1287 Hodiarnont avenue, and Pania was about to issue a warrant, when they insisted the warrant authorize a search of the living rooms over the saloon, as well as the saloon itself. Pania refused to issue a warrant for search of the home, and the officers went away empty-handed, saying they did not care to search the saloon only.

DEPUTY SHOT IN MEXICO CITY

Exchange of Fire Follows Ardent Debate Over Agrarian Crimes.

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 4.—Deputy Wenceslao Macib last night shot and probably fatally wounded Deputy Martin Perez in a pistol fight in the streets after the adjournment of Congress for the night.

The fight was the outgrowth of a hot debate over agrarian crimes in the State of Puebla, which President Calles condemned on Tuesday.

SPANIARD BUILDS QUEER CRAFT
HAVANA, Sept. 4.—Fernando Lopez, a Spaniard, resident of Matanzas, purposed to attempt to drift from Cuba to Spain in a life-saving device he has invented.

The craft is egg shaped and large enough to accommodate 12 persons and also a supply of food and water. It is so ballasted that when in the water it will remain in an upright position. Lopez thinks he can launch the craft in the Gulf Stream north of Cuba and that it will drift with the stream northward off the British Isles and thence with it southward to the coast of Spain.

NO-PARKING RULE ATTACKED IN COURT

Judge, Referring to Similar Case, Indicates He Might Rule Against Measure.

The Traffic Council's no-parking rule for the downtown district was the object of a vigorous attack today in Circuit Judge Roskopf's court. In the injunction action brought by the Franklin Avenue Improvement Association to restrain enforcement of the measure.

During the argument Judge Roskopf expressed an opinion with regard to another suit indicating he might rule against the parking regulation. The rule, as is known, prohibits parking of pleasure vehicles in the district bounded by Third, Market, Twelfth and Franklin between 7 and 10 a. m. and 4 and 6 p. m.

Lawrence McDaniel, attorney for the Franklin Avenue Improvement Association, declared the no-parking hours fall in the busiest time of the Franklin avenue day and interfere seriously with business by preventing prospective customers leaving their cars nearby.

"There are two policemen in every block yelling at motorists to get to hell out of there," McDaniel declared. "That's poor encouragement for any business."

He declared the Franklin avenue merchants would be satisfied with the old one-hour parking regulation. The argument was made on a demurrer presented by Associate City Counselor Bader representing the Board of Police Commissioners and the Traffic Council. The case was taken under advisement.

During the argument the Court referred to a similar injunction proceeding brought by a plaintiff after he had been ordered away from a parking place.

"I have about determined he had a right to park there," Judge Roskopf said.

BOARD VOTES $3000 TO PAY FOR LACLEDE GAS LIGHT AUDIT

Estimate Body Also Votes $6500 to Prepare Engineering Plans for Municipal Service Building.

The Board of Estimate and Apportionment at its meeting today approved an appropriation of $3000 to pay J. M. McShane, public accountant, for an audit to be made by him of the books of the Laclede Gas Light Co. for the city, in connection with the Laclede valuation case now pending before the Missouri Public Service Commission.

Also authorized was the employment of the Martin Engineering Co., Syndicate Trust Building, at $6500, to prepare structural engineering plans for the Municipal Service Building to be erected at Twelfth street and Clark avenue. This building will supply power to municipal institutions.

Approval was voted of an ordinance to be presented to the Board of Aldermen by Comptroller Nolte, providing for the permanent employment of 15 inspectors at $175 to $185 a month to supervise the installation of a new $2,000,000 lighting system downtown and elsewhere, to be contracted for this fall, and the employment of three additional inspectors of electrical wiring.

Also approved was the employment by the city hospital of another bacteriologist at $200 a month; employment of 50 persons to operate the new unit of Koch Hospital, at $2000 a year; employment of 15 inspectors at $175 to $185 a month to supervise the installation of a new $2,000,000 lighting system downtown and elsewhere, to be contracted for this fall, and the employment of three additional inspectors of electrical wiring.

HESSIAN FLY WARNING FOR MISSOURI FARMERS

Volunteer Wheat Should Be Plowed Under to Kill Broods, Expert Says.

By the Associated Press.
COLUMBUS, Mo., Sept. 4.—Hessian fly broods, deadly enemies of wheat crops, are likely to be active in Missouri during the next 12 months, according to a warning issued by Leonard Haseman, entomologist of the Missouri College of Agriculture.

Present records, according to the entomologist, indicate that the next wheat crop over a considerable part of the State is likely to suffer from the Hessian fly unless wheat growers are careful in preparation and seeding the crops this fall.

The menace at present, says Haseman, comes from the fact that recent general rains will result in plenty of "volunteer" wheat, which, if not destroyed, will serve as breeding places for the rail brood of flies. The rains also are making conditions favorable for early and thorough preparations of the seed bed.

The College of Agriculture makes the following recommendations for the protection of the next crop of wheat from the Hessian fly:

Plow under, as promptly as possible infested fields of wheat stubble not needed to grass or clover; keep down volunteer wheat; cultivate thoroughly the seed bed prior to seeding time; delay seeding until the recorded fly-free date for your locality but be prepared to seed promptly that date. The college has on file the fly-free dates of all communities of the State.

KIRCHEIS NAMED EFFICIENCY BOARD HEAD FOR 4-YEAR TERM

He Has Been Serving to Fill Out Unexpired Term of Charles Hertenstein, Who Resigned.
William T. Kirchels, who was appointed chairman of the Efficiency Board a few months ago to fill out the unexpired term of Charles Hertenstein, following the latter's resignation over differences with Mayor Miller, today was re-appointed chairman of the board for the full term, ending Sept. 4, 1928. Hertenstein's appointment by a previous administration would have ended today.

A salary of $6000 a year is paid the chairman of the Efficiency Board. Kirchels, who has been in the city's employ for 14 years, was Supervisor of Water assessment when appointed to succeed Hertenstein. He was one of the original Miller-for-Mayor supporters.

BICYCLIST HURT IN COLLISION

He Was Practicing in Forest Park for Amateur Races.
In a spill of bicycle riders who were practicing at 8 a. m. today in Forest Park for the American national amateur races to be held tomorrow and Sunday in the park, William Pascoe, 21, of Indianapolis, member of the Century Road Club of America, was severely injured, suffering a fractured right arm and scalp lacerations.

The accident was caused by a collision of a junior rider with Pascoe during a sprint around a curve. The junior rider was also thrown, but escaped injury. Pascoe was taken to St. John's Hospital.

SUGAR CROP TO SET RECORD

Slicing of Beets Begins in California; Many Concerns Affected.
Special to the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, Sept. 4.—The world is facing the probability of another record-breaking sugar crop. As a result consumers of sugar now can plan with increasing safety for expansion and development of their industries in the coming twelvemonth. This will affect canners, preservers, soft drink manufacturers, fruit and vegetable growers and can and bottle manufacturers as well as individual consumers.

Slicing of sugar beets in California got under real headway today. From this time on factories all over the Middle and Far West will be turning out sugar at a rate which doubtless will assure stability of sugar prices until the first of the Cuban 1925-26 crop comes on the market.

Approximately four-fifths of the produce movement on the Priceo during the past month originated in the Ozarks of Southwest Missouri and Northwest Arkansas.

POWERS READY
CHINA'S STATUS

Identical Notes of Nine Nations Delivered at Peking—Point Out Need of Stability.

COURTS AND LAWS
ALONE NOT ENOUGH

S. S. Asks for Information That Will Guide Powers in Relinquishment of Special Rights.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4. — The nine Governments signatory to the Sino-American treaty negotiated at the Washington conference of 1922 have notified the Peking Government in identical notes that they are ready to appoint commissioners at an early date to consider what steps, if any, may be taken with a view to relinquishment of the extra-territorial provisions which their nationals in China now enjoy.

The decision of the Powers, involving readiness to undertake the investigation of China's judicial system, to appoint delegates to a special conference on Chinese tariff matters, and to consider any reasonable proposal that may be made by the Chinese authorities for revision of the treaties on the subject, was announced last night in answer to the Chinese note of the 24th.

At the same time each of the Powers said it desired to "impress upon the Chinese Government the necessity of giving concrete evidence of its ability and willingness to enforce respect for the safety of foreign lives and property and to suppress disorder and anti-foreign agitation, which embitter feeling and tend to create conditions unfavorable for the carrying on of negotiations."

Laws Alone Not Enough. In this connection it was made plain to the Chinese Government that the mere establishment of courts and the enactment of laws did not meet the requirements of the situation.

"Courts cannot function and develop properly or consistently," the notes said, "without the aid of a stable government, capable and willing to maintain them and enforce their findings and decisions. It is regretted that the inability of the Chinese Government during the last few years fully to enforce the mandate of its authority has made difficult for the courts and judiciary already established to function in a normal manner."

Minister John Van A. MacMurray presented the notes to the Chinese Government at the State Department on the 24th of June 24, and his colleagues of the Peking diplomatic corps representing the eight other Governments, acted likewise for their respective home offices.

American Reply. The American reply, made public by the State Department, continued:

"The questions of the conventional tariff and the extra-territorial rights under which nationals of the treaty Powers reside in China are two of the important questions raised by the Chinese Government's note. Both received consideration at the Washington conference, and it is the belief of the Government of the United States that the most feasible method for dealing with them is by a constant and scrupulous observance of the obligations undertaken at that conference."

To that end, the Government of the United States is ready to appoint its delegates to the special conference on Chinese tariff matters provided for in the treaty of Feb. 6, 1922, and is furthermore willing, either at that conference or at a subsequent time to consider and discuss any reasonable proposal that may be made by the Chinese Government for a revision of the treaties on the subject of the tariff.

More Information Wanted. Before it can form any opinion as to what, if any, steps can be taken to meet the desires of the Chinese Government in regard to the question of extra-territoriality and those special safeguards of the treaties under which its nationals reside and conduct their enterprises in China, my Government desires to have before it more complete information than has heretofore been available, and the most feasible way in which the question can be approached and considered is to send to China the commission provided for in resolution five of the Washington conference, in the expectation that investigation made by that commission will help to clear up the points on which the Chinese Government desires to have the Powers as to what steps should be taken as regards the relinquishment, by gradual means or otherwise, of extra-territorial rights at this time. The Government is now ready to

ISSUED IN STATE UP TO SEPT. 1

Represents an Increase of 31,452
Over Total for All of 1924—
Fees Also Larger.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
JEFFERSON CITY, Sept. 4.— A total of 575,690 automobiles and motor truck licenses for 1925 were issued up to Sept. 1, last, an increase of 31,452 over the total increase of 23,673 over the total for 1924. A large part of this increase is due to the 50 per cent
increase in license fees, which was effective this year.

Money paid in for license fees
thus far totals $6,907,231, an increase of $2,367,231 over the total for 1924. A large part of this increase is due to the 50 per cent
increase in license fees, which was
effective this year.

In addition to the automobile
and truck licenses, the department
up to Sept. 1 had issued 207,676 dealers' licenses, 20,374 chauffeurs'
badges, 3597 operators' licenses, 1811 motor cycle plates, 1015
trailer licenses, 252,676 certificates of title, 29,509 tag registration certificates, 1274 plates for official

CHILEANS PROTEST AGAINST ACTION OF AMERICANS

Activities of Members of Pielistary Body in Province Resented by Press.

By the Associated Press.
SANTIAGO, Chile, Sept. 4.—Unofficial Chilean protests against activities of members of the American delegation of the Tacna-Arica Pielistic Commission in their investigations of the Chilean administration of the provinces of Tacna
and Arica have cropped out in several quarters recently.

Numerous articles and editorials
have appeared in the local press protesting in more or less veiled language against the Americans traveling through the countryside and questioning the inhabitants. There also is resentment among the Chileans brought on by allegations that the Americans have been examining the records of the delegation's headquarters here.

No statement was forthcoming from American quarters, but it is understood all the delegations' activities are aimed simply to hold the peace under the freest and fairest conditions.

CHICAGO BOARD OF TRADE
VOTES FOR CHANGE IN RULES

Amendments to Prevent Erratic Fluctuations in Futures Contracts to Be Submitted.

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Sept. 4.—Members of the Chicago Board of Trade, by a vote of 601 to 281, yesterday authorized the board of directors to submit to the members a plan which would prevent erratic price fluctuations in futures contracts as suggested by Secretary of Agriculture Jardine.

The vote was not upon any specific amendments, but rather upon the proposition of authorizing the board to proceed in the work of formulating suggested rules under which a modern clearing-house system would be established.

Secretary Jardine in a letter last month urging changes in the existing rules said that in authorizing such changes the Board of Trade members would indicate a willingness to comply with the spirit of the new futures administration regulations. He made the general suggestion that fluctuations under conditions of temporary stress
should be curbed.

ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH

ST. LOUIS, FRIDAY EVENING, SEPTEMBER 4, 1925.

POWER MAGNATE
HAS PLAN TO JOIN
U. R. AND BUS LINES

Clement Studebaker Jr. of Chicago Is Center of Discussions Involving Possible Merger of System.

PROPOSAL TAKES IN EAST ST. LOUIS

No Indication That United Railways Reorganizers
Have Been Approached Regarding the Project.

Prevalent discussion about the consolidation of People's Motorbus with the United Railways is understood in financial circles to be part of a plan by Clement Studebaker Jr., Chicago power and traction magnate, to establish a comprehensive street railway and bus transportation system in the St. Louis metropolitan area.

It is believed that negotiations in Chicago concerning the bus company constitute one of Studebaker's first efforts to conciliate the different bus and traction interests in St. Louis and East St. Louis with a view of bringing them together in one large system.

Thus far, it is clearly just an idea. There is no indication that Studebaker has sought to have the interests now engaged in reorganizing
the United Railways enter his plan or view the matter in reorganizing
the properties.

U. R. Situation

The present plan of reorganizing
the United Railways is complete as to financial set-up, but has encountered some difficulties in the ruling of Federal Judge Paris that underlying bonds could not be retired by exchanging them for 4 per cent
general bonds now held in the treasury.

Frank O. Watts, chairman and spokesman of the reorganization committee, is in New York, and Studebaker is at Rye Beach, N. H.

The Watts committee made unsuccessful efforts a year ago to purchase the bus lines. An agreement was reached with the Chicago
company, to sell to the reorganization committee for $2,800,000, but the security holders of the United Railways, who were relied upon to furnish the money, refused to buy
at the price demanded by Watts.

It is generally agreed by all parties interested in any degree in transportation here that both the bus and street railway systems should be consolidated. There is a rather general sentiment for coordinated service, however. It is felt that two competing systems
cannot be conducted profitably
under two heavy overheads to carry.

Ritchie's Attitude

John A. Ritchie, associated with Hertz in the ownership of bus lines here and in Chicago and
New York, has in the past expressed a willingness to sell the
bus line's interest if by so doing
the public might be better served.
Incidentally, manufacturing buses is their principal business and in
New York, has in the past expressed a willingness to sell the
the public might be better served.

The reorganization committee of the United Railways hopes to obtain a 50-year or indefinite term lease from the city at a service-at-cost plan which would incorporate a provision for co-ordination of buses. The city under this franchise would have membership on the board of control,
as well as the appointment of a street railway commissioner.

The present reorganization interests had hoped to take the street railway out of receivership late this year, but delays have been forced upon them and there is no indication now as to the time it will consume.

Securing a franchise from the city is an important item, inasmuch as the sale of new securities must await the grant of a favorable franchise. Under the new plan about $2,000,000 in bonds must be sold to provide new capital.

COOK COUNTY PROPERTY
VALUED AT $5,500,000,000

Total Increase of Real Estate Estimated by Board of Assessors at $112,517,270.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
CHICAGO, Sept. 4.—Cook County,
in terms of personal property
and real estate, is worth $5,500-000,000, according to figures issued today by the Board of Assessors.

The total valuation of real estate was nearly $2,000,000,000. This shows an increase of $112,517,270
over the amount fixed by the Board of Review in 1924. But this increase actually represents only new buildings constructed in the last year, it was explained. Valuations nearly 10 years old were fixed in 1924
and will remain the same for four years.

TROTZKY PLANS VAST
ELECTRIC PROJECT

Hydro Station on Dnieper to Develop 1,200,000,000
Kilowatt Hours a Year.

By the Associated Press.
KHARKOV, Russia, Sept. 4.—
Leon Trotsky as head of the scientific and technical bureau of the supreme economic council, in charge of electrical development, has expressed approval of a vast project for the construction of a hydro-electric power station of 200,000 horsepower and 1,200,000-000 kilowatt-hour capacity per annum on the river Dnieper in the southern Ukraine.

Trotsky said yesterday that American specialists will be invited to investigate the capabilities of the enterprise and that the Government will be requested to assign $500,000 for the expense of this investigation. The project would involve an expenditure of $500,000-000.

The proposed power station
would be constructed in the midst of the rich manganese and iron ore mines in the districts of Nikopol and Krivoy Rog, on the lower Dnieper.

Foreign capital will be needed to finance the project, but it is not intended to turn over the entire capitalization to foreigners. However, Trotsky said, it will be necessary to place huge orders for hydro-electrical and other technical equipment abroad. Trotsky has been investigating the project on the spot.

TURKEY QUESTIONS
LEAGUE'S CONTROL

Declares Right to Grant

lishing Co., (New York World)

GENEVA, Sept. 4.—Turkey injected a complicated legal question
into the controversy over Mosul,
when Tewfik Roushdy Bey, Turkish Foreign Minister, told the League of Nations Council that under Article XXII of the covenant
the league, is not permitted to grant a mandate over any territory
that has not passed from the sovereignty of its former ruler.

He pointed out yesterday that the league's Mosul commission had conceded that Turkey's legal right to Mosul existed until voluntarily relinquished and hence the league
could not grant Great Britain an extension of 25 years' mandate over Mesopotamia, including Mosul, as the commission suggested, without assuming the role of pretender to sovereignty over the Mosul Vilayet.

Council to Avoid Decision
This followed hours of charges and countercharges involving acts of war and threats of war and left the question enshrouded, with scarcely a ray of optimism for the unhappy League Council. The Council will continue discussion today and then turn the matter over to a subcommittee.

Under the smoke screen thrown up by the British Colonial Secretary and Tewfik Bey, there is faint hope that the subcommittee may formulate a decision that will avert creation of a new Alsace-Lorraine in the Near East.

Foreign Minister Osten Unden of Sweden, reporter of the council, outlined the Mosul commission's work, stressing the agreement of both parties to accept the council's decision. The Vilayet of Mosul, valuable for oil and for its strategic advantages, was given to the Kingdom of Iraq, Mesopotamia, under British mandate by the first Turkish treaty, but under the treaty of Lausanne, decision as to the boundary line was left to the Council after investigation by a league commission.

The gravity of the situation is apparent as a result of the lengthy criticisms of the commission's report by both Tewfik Bey and Amery.

The British Colonial Minister, outlining the views of Iraq and Britain, asked that the frontier be even beyond the limits of Mosul,
a range of mountains clearly within Turkish territory but including land he regarded as strategically imperative for Iraq and economically unimportant to Turkey.

Reaffirming Britain's intention to accept the Council's decision, Amery announced that the Government is "prepared to continue to bear all responsibilities which may be necessary to meet the conditions laid down by the Council decision." This is regarded as equivalent to a declaration that Britain will use her full military strength against Turkey if necessary to enforce the decision. He qualified the pronouncement by saying fulfillment of these responsibilities only would be assured if the league approved the frontier claims advanced.

The commission's report, which is admittedly the most complete document ever prepared by the league, he criticized in many particulars, especially the experts admission of the legality of Turkish sovereignty over the territory. He argued that this automatically ends when the Council's decision is made, regardless of Turkey's wishes.

He announced that Britain is favorable to extending her mandate
in Mesopotamia (including Mosul)
to 25 years if necessary to establish the Arabians on a firm foundation. The alternative suggestion of giving Mosul to Turkey he ignored.

The commission's other alternative suggestion, that the boundary
be along the Lesser Zab River,
which would give the city of Mosul
to Turkey, he characterized as indefensible, strategically, economically and racially. It would be totally unacceptable and unfair both to Turkey and Britain, he said, to divide the territory, he said. He concluded by demanding immediate decision.

In the afternoon Tewfik Bey asserted that all Mosul should be given to Turkey.

It is generally believed the final decision will be not to divide the Vilayet but to give it to what is regarded as the more stable Government.

Trolley Cars vs. Busses.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
If you will pardon a further word in connection with your editorial, "Trolley Passengers' Peril," the writer did not intend to convey any suggestion that trolley lines should locate their tracks at the curb.

What the writer wishes to convey is that the trolley lines cannot under any circumstances qualify as suitable for transportation on surface streets, that no possible change in a fixed rail vehicle can enable it to qualify for the purpose.

The motorbus in many ways is far superior to a trolley car for surface transportation, but can you find anyone in America that has the courage to give the facts to the public? For instance, the American Electric Railway Association says these busses cannot be operated in sufficient numbers in big cities to carry mass transportation. Yet the American Railway Association knows their statement is untrue. They know, and I know, that there are 5000 motorbuses in daily operation by the General Omnibus Co. in London. They know that in 1924, these motorbuses carried 1,250,000,000 passengers, or four times the number (308,000,000) passengers carried by the London "Underground" or subways. In 1922, the association also knows that the motorbuses in London carried in 1924 180,000,000 more passengers than were carried by London's surface trolleys.

The situation in St. Louis is worse than ridiculous. If the United Railways were to put all their equipment in operation at one time, we would have about 1600 trolley cars, no busses on primary routes, and less than 50 U. R. busses on "feeder" supplement routes. Add to this the 175 busses operated on primary routes by the independent company, the Peoples Motorbus Co., and we have a total of less than 2000 vehicles of large capacity on surface streets and no subways.

What are the prospects for improvement here? The United Railways, a member of the American Electric Railway Association, is not permitted by the association to use any busses in primary service. The association has ruled that the bus is a feeder or supplement, "it may bring passengers from outlying districts (thither without trolley service), to the trolley lines, but there must be no penetration of the busses into the city, but all passengers from the outlying districts brought by the busses to the trolley lines are to be transferred to these trolleys on paying a fare of 10 cents."

The Sullivan Avenue Dust nuisance.
To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
ONE of the many dust-sufferers resultant from the work on this sewer between Prairie and Vandeventer avenues, we wish to ask the Commissioner of Streets and Sewers, through the Post-Dispatch, if something cannot at once be done to alleviate the distress of householders and tenants (in regard to the dust) on Sullivan avenue west to Vandeventer, thence north to Ashland avenue. The dropping of dirt from the overloaded trucks in the above district is continual, which, owing to the heavy trucks and automobiles, passing from early morning till 3 p. m., is at once ground to a fine dust and permeates windows, doors and crevices, making for much suffering of the inhabitants.

It would seem that a judicious sprinkling might end this trouble, and it is well known that such action would be a great boon to the dust-sufferers in this North St. Louis district.

THE SISTERS OF THE GOOD SHEPHERD.

A Service to History and Letters.
To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
I HAVE read with interest the comments on the Jesse James serial, recently concluded in the Post-Dispatch. In my judgment, Mr. Robertus Love has performed a distinct service to both history and letters in his masterful investigation of his subject, and his finely written book giving us the real story. Most of us who have read of Jesse James and his band gathered our impressions from the lurid and wretchedly written bunk that was so freely circulated some years since. It was, therefore, a real treat to those who followed Mr. Love's serial, to have it presented in a literary dress that was so refreshingly and wisely written in the literature of our period.

G. F. M.

THE PASSION FOR UNIFORMITY.

Charles Evans Hughes was at his intellectual best in his Detroit address to the American Bar Association. By nobody else, so far as we are aware, has the present American obsession for regulation by law been so soundly challenged and so illuminatingly analyzed. There is hardly a sentence in the entire paper without some special distinction, but the following paragraph seems to us the most striking:

Especially should we be on our guard against varieties of a false Americanism which professes to maintain American institutions while detroning American ideals. The just demands of liberty are not to be satisfied by a free and uncorrupted right of suffrage. Democracy has its own capacity for tyranny. Some of the most menacing encroachments upon liberty invoke the democratic principle and assert the right of the majority to rule. Shall not the people—that is, the majority—have their hearts' desire? There is no gaining this in the long run, and our only real protection is that it will not be their hearts' desire to sweep away our cherished traditions of personal liberty. The interests of liberty are peculiarly those of individuals, and hence of minorities, and freedom is in danger of being slain at her own altars if the passion for uniformity and control of opinion gathers head.

This passion for uniformity, with its vindictive spirit of intolerance, which Mr. Hughes regards as "the most ominous sign of our time," has ceased to be a phenomenon and has become a commonplace. We see it operating in many guises and dimensions. Now on a national scale, organized and systematized after the pattern of Big Business. Again, strutting locally in the persons of officials clothed with a little brief authority. Here robed in the sanction of the church and there sporting itself in mask and mummery. The latest demonstration of this spirit of intolerance to focus public attention was staged at Dayton, Tenn. Mr. Hughes' comments on the spirit that would fetter education by invoking the democratic mechanism of the majority's power to work its will is so sane, so lucid and so splendidly tolerant that one might almost dare to hope that those words of wisdom will be heard and heeded.

But is Mr. Hughes himself buoyed up by any such hope? Read again the paragraph quoted. "Democracy has its own capacity for tyranny. Some of the most menacing encroachments upon liberty invoke the democratic principle and assert the right of the majority to rule." In a word, Mr. Hughes recognizes that we are swiftly approaching that "Tyranny of the Majority" long ago prophesied by De Tocqueville—the tyranny of a "false Americanism which professes to maintain American institutions while detroning American ideals."

The American ideals for whose preservation Mr. Hughes so earnestly pleads are all embodied in our Bill of Rights. Everyone with any shadow of claim to American citizenship is familiar with that Charter and thrills to the vision and the inspiration of that incomparable legacy. But we are throwing away that patrimony, throwing it away riotously, despite the righteous auspices of our madness. One of our most cherished American ideals is religious liberty. That, too, is imperiled. Interference with education on intellectual grounds is serious enough, Mr. Hughes observes, but to attempt to control education in the interest of any religious creed or dogma is infinitely worse. We cannot enter upon any such attempt and remain true to our ideal of religious liberty. The shallow plausibility of those who maintain we can thus utterly routed:

The question is not whether these doctrines are true and should be embraced. The point is that this is not the way to foster their support. In our country there are all sorts of religious beliefs and practices, and at one time or another before religious liberty was established here our forbears in other lands have all alike—Baptists, Presbyterians, Catholics, Jews, Quakers and others—suffered persecution at the hand of Government. What was the reason of this persecution? Was it not a plausible one? What could be more plausible than that the truth of religion should be fostered and supported by the State? But if so fostered and supported its nature will be determined by the State. What could be a nobler exercise of governmental power than to destroy religious error and save the souls of men from perdition? That plausible pretext has given us the saddest pages of history. That is the road that leads back to the perversion of authority and the abhorrent practices of the dark days of political disqualifications on grounds of religion, of persecution, of religious wars, of tortures, of martyrdom. If Kings and Princes, or the legislative majorities which have succeeded them, may enter the domain of conscience it is certain that they will make this entry with the most fiery zeal, the most profound conviction, the most ruthless determination of which the human heart is capable.

The question which Mr. Hughes has submitted to the American people is this: Can our American democracy endure? His answer is that it cannot endure if the majority, in the name of law, is to trample down all the rights of the minority, destroy individual freedom and crush out the last vestige of personal liberty. It cannot endure if the Bill of Rights is to be made a mockery. It cannot endure if we must all conform to the whims of an intolerant majority's fatal passion for uniformity.

Well, which are we to accept: Bootlegger Remus' testimony before the Senate committee that investigated Daugherty, his repudiation, or his repudiation of his repudiation?

CLASS-CONSCIOUS FEMINISM.

Rebecca West's wait in the Sunday Post-Dispatch that women, though the mental equals of men, are getting a raw deal in the industries and professions is wearying. The question of mental equality as between the sexes is quite immaterial. There are still many men superior in mentality to many women, and there are many women superior to many men. Why bring in sex when the competition is between individuals?

As to the discrimination against women in the vocations, all we can say is that, if true, the discriminators, whether men or women, are very foolish. They are simply throwing away money or accepting inferior professional service in employing men where superior women are available. If that is actually the case Miss West need not worry, for man, as a captain of affairs, will soon eliminate himself through such fallacious practice. Women leaders with superior judgment will nose him out of the race.

It is not to be denied that women, because of their function in life, are subject to certain handicaps. But why blame society? Why not put the blame where it belongs—on the Creator—if blame it be? Most women are willing to acknowledge this handicap, but these are not qualified to represent the cause of class-conscious feminism. It is only by keeping alive the agitation of sex discrimination that the professional feminist survives.

THE HEALTH BOARD AND POLITICS.

"The public health," says Dr. North, president of the State Board of Health, "is too big a problem and too important to be mixed up in politics." He advocates legislation which would make it impossible to have a repetition of "the scandals connected with the various medical schools and otherwise in the profession in Missouri."

Does this mean that we should seek to have legislation enacted to shield us from the officials elected by our own votes? Might we not as well say: Take the governorship and the Legislature out of politics? Our government is political. If we cannot elect Governors who will keep the Board of Health clean of crookedness and improper conduct, then our government is a failure and there is nothing to do but face the truth.

Moreover, if the voters of the State tolerate continued support Governors who maintain Health Boards less than 100 per cent clean, then the voters will get what they deserve. If we cannot keep politics out of the State Board of Health by our votes then there is no hope for us in legislation. If the voters insist on a clean Board of Health they will get one. If they do not they must accept what comes.

THEY WANT TO COME BACK.

Now that they have got over they want to come back. They want to come back so badly that they are offering steamship companies in Paris two or three times the ordinary fare, with no luck. Consider the plight of the poor tourist. He has done Europe, from Liverpool to Naples. He has seen art galleries, cathedrals, battlefields, palaces and antiques until he is blue in the face. He has drunk his fill of Muenchener, Vovray, Burgundy and the effervescent stuff from Champagne. After three months of it, he begins to long for the sight of the old town pump "way back in Indiana."

Since all liners are completely booked until October, those who failed to get reservations seem to be in for an additional dose of Europe. Steamship companies are unable to cope with the biggest rush for years. In the end, perhaps, the Government will be asked to restore the army transport service. If that is done, our wandering friends will be home in a jiffy. In June, 1919, the Leviathan, sailing from Brest, carried 15,000 good men and true to Hoboken at one magnificent swoop.

Of course, there were some slight inconveniences, such as packing men three and four deep in the hold, washing in sea water and standing in a mile-long line forchow. Seven days on the Leviathan on that memorable trip was a lesson in democracy. But even those who went across in the luxurious cabins of the Mauretania will feel intensely democratic if they are compelled to stay in Europe weeks longer than they had expected. Here's a chance for the Shipping Board and the Fleet Corporation to make a little pocket money.

A GOVERNMENT OF VAGABONDS.

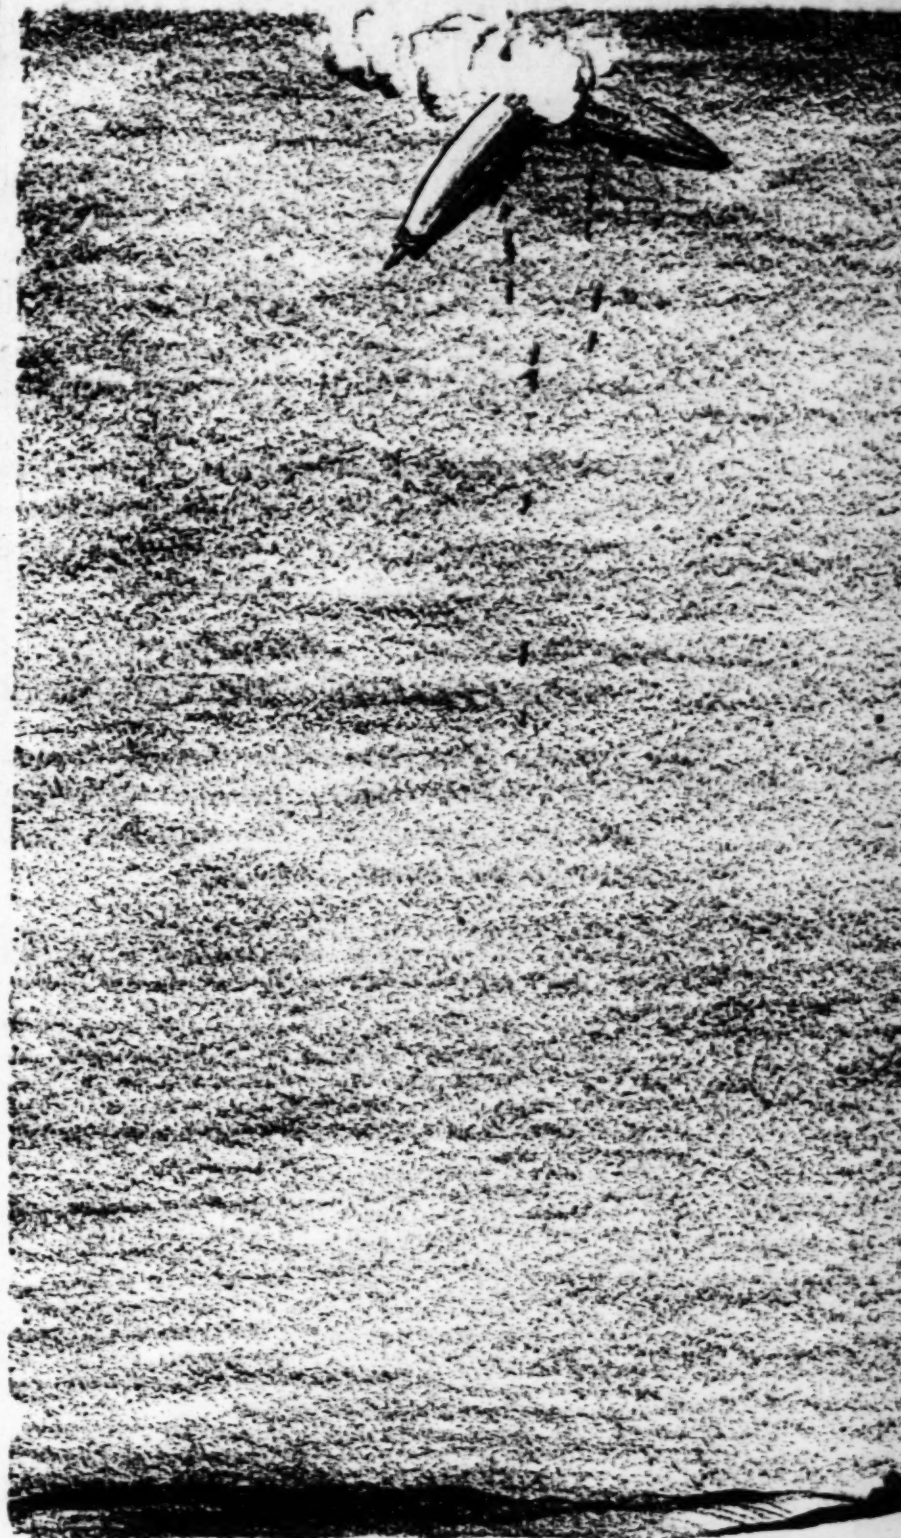

Those are all tramps, says Max Eastman, in effect, to those who read his book "Since Lenin Died." This is his sour commentary on the characters of Stalin, Kaminsiev, Tchitcherin, Kalenin and Trotsky. And, just or unjust, that is the world's opinion of the soviet leaders. We hold the picture of tramps come to Moscow. Their red bonfire glows against the gloom, and Russia is as silent as its snows, as subject as its yellow rivers. Correspondents describe for us weird interviews with bearded, unkempt men who quote Lenin, apishly, and seem assured of the success of communism. For us their dream has turned nightmare, but they seem to smile upon it still. We mistrust their smiles, reading about midnight conferences of ragamuffins in icy palaces; reading how the next week there is civil war in China, a riot in India and a demonstration in Trafalgar Square.

This vagabond dance cannot last, we assure ourselves. Yet it has lasted for eight years. For a time hope reposed in the Russian peasantry. Writers who have seen the peasants shake their heads. The country folk of Russia drink vodka in their villages and worship God secretly or not at all. Then a tiny faith in Lenin arose, but that faith lies in a frigid sepulchre. Not since Lenin died has a sane, reasonable voice spoken from Moscow. Trotsky, more loyal to the master's policies than the rest, was exiled and is now existing on the sufferance of the big three who rule Russia. The tramps no longer clamor at the doorstep; they have moved into the mansion and there is not a landlord to say them nay.

The Russian nightmare is growing firesome. Tyranny, and corruption hold sway. The red fire burns and there is a rattle of bones in the pot. Yet these vagabonds do not care. Tomorrow, as every tramp knows, is a long way off when one has a full stomach and a rod of power.

PANATELA.

YES, Luella.
Income taxes
Show how far
We were misled:
Once again
Our aspirations
Bitterly tumble
Out of bed.
After innocently
Dreaming
That the law
Would help the poor.
Here we find
The expectation
Daily rising
From the floor.

Truth to tell,
My little girle,
Now the thing
Has had a test.
It is only
At the bottom
Very much Like all the rest.
One with liberty
And other Things that haunt
The human heart.
Application
Of it only Wakes us with An awful start.

Having rubbed
His foot head sadly,
As he often
Has before, Possibly
Man will discover
How this law
Has helped the poor.
Or is it
Too much to hope for
When this fall
Makes wide his eye
He will see
The tax is added
On to everything
We buy.

Let us take
The case of dry goods,
Manufactured products,
Shoes.
Who is fool enough
To fancy
That the makers
Of them lose?
Or is it
Not well known to us
That the only Honest yell Rises from
The luckless hambre
Who has nothing
He can sell?

So we have it,
Sweet Luella,
Think of all
The long years through
What we claimed
For it to find out
That the opposite
Is true.
In his ignorant
Cousness Letting that Invade the head,
And at last
To wake from dreaming
And again
Fall out of bed.

Sir: The attention of the Friends of Liberty should be called to President Coolidge's Attorney-General, Sargent. Here he is reported as saying that drunkenness has disappeared from the streets in the United States. It should have been expected that someone would say this; preparation therefore should have been made. Is it not possible to hire 20 men to parade Market street staggering to keep up the appearance of the street; to make it look as if it did before our liberties were taken from us? Or is that now possible? Has there come with the loss of our liberties an accession of self-respect even among the men who once staggered up and down Market street? And is America undergoing a cleansing in the morally lowest stratum of her people? Can 20 men be hired to pass themselves off as drunk on any former American thoroughfare of drunks? The enemy are saying there are 1000 points in the British Islands, any of which more drunks can be seen in five minutes than on our Market street in 30 days. The eminent jurist of St. Louis who stands at the head and front of the fight for liberty (excuse me, Liberty), should look into this.

LAKE CHAUTAUQUA.—The gentle flutter of soft green grass and leaves, the lightly ruffled, clear blue water decorated now and then by a white boat; farms and fields on the hills across the lake like delightfully irregular cross-words puzzles; the wistful, dainty woody call of a pewee, the assured blue of a clear summer sky, in the evening heavens, pale rose and opal, with and embellished by a glorious moon; mists and dark light; the little black and gray sandpipers calling, and the promiscuous among small stones of the waterside and hiding themselves against them; hills ever green and maple grown where roads seldom traveled run, and bluebirds softly splash the air. These are some things nature gives at Lake Chautauqua.

A Maryland Judge threw out of court the case of a girl trapped by a Federal prohibition officer under the guise of courtship. The officer says he was instructed to go the limit to convict the mother and father of selling liquor, and his idea of going the limit was to woo the daughter. Maryland is the State where a member of Congress started a winery in his basement and asked the Government to come and get him. Evidently both sides take prohibition a good deal harder in Maryland than we do in Missouri.

I WONDER IF—
I wonder if I'll miss you less, another day:
Some day I hope to take a little rest;
Perhaps I'll wonder if, at fate's behest
You took the happier road along the way
From far-off hills, I heard the Red Gods call
To fill my life with other things; and yet
When from their book my rusted spurs will fall
You'll find it's true, Old Friend, we can't forget.

The past is gone; we cannot now exchange
Our whispered vows for rose-purpled dawn.
All, all of that we knew, is gone!
And now, strange horsemen gallop on our range.
Yet, oft, at night, I feel a deep regret—
I wonder if—of course you can—forget.

The MIRROR OF PUBLIC OPINION

DAYTON AND ANDOVER.

From the Topeka Capital.

MODERN philanthropists in education are getting more and more away from attempts of prescribing conditions as to how and for what purposes funds shall be employed. It is mainly to the educational changes cannot be foreseen. Mr. Bryan had no manner of question that a new teaching the specific propositions he stipulates always would do so, but experience has shown that reliance placed safely in such an expectation. A notable example, now forgotten by public, but at one time a subject of considerable public interest, was the endowment of one of the great liberal schools in the country, at Andover, Mass., in which it was stipulated that teachers should teach. In the generations the later teachers differed some of their opinions from those of a century in which the school was founded and a bitter controversy arose, reaching the stage where it became a question whether the endowment had been forfeited. It is conceivable that years no schools will teach the full trines prescribed in the Bryan will, in such a case what would come of endowment fund is a problem. Mr. Bryan's provision for education implies the doctrines of the theologians are fixed and immutable.

MAKING FACES AT TEACHERS.

From the Kansas City Times.
A TEACHER in Southeast Missouri has four children arrested for making faces at her. They have been discharged by Judge on the ground that making faces is no crime.

The judge has the moral support of persons who remember their youth, and who side against the teacher, and they approve the practice of making faces or that they would contend that such conduct is not exasperating. Still it has admitted that school discipline is relaxed on the young human animal, and nervous energy suppressed under the watchful eye on the platform must have a let.

Making faces at teacher on the day of traditional way of relieving repression. Wise teachers know this and allowances for it. One of the wise men ever knew used to make it a point to reason for turning her back and to another direction after she had given one of her charges. That gave an excuse for the teacher to turn away without being guilty of an obvious act of discipline.

Judge Ferguson at Poplar Bluff understands human nature.

EARLY COMPLETION OF AQUARIUM PROMISED

Mayor Miller Tells Zoological Society He Will Direct Efforts to That End.

A promise that, so far as his efforts could avail, the new aquarium in Forest Park Zoo would be completed "at this time next year," was made by Mayor Miller last night to the Zoological Society of St. Louis at its annual meeting on the Zoo grounds.

An appropriation of $400,000 for an aquarium was one of the items of the bond issue. Plans already drawn contemplate an aquarium not unlike, in exterior appearance, the new monkey house, which last night was estimated by George C. Dieckman, president of the society, to be "the finest in the world."

Like the monkey house also, it is desired to make the aquarium comfortable and pleasing for visitors as well as suitable for adequate display of fish in surroundings that simulate their native habitats.

The meeting of the Zoological Society had the aspects of a fête. The grounds were illuminated, a space in the plaza west of the lion house was cordoned for dancing, fireworks were shot off in front of the monkey house and all of the buildings were open for visitors. The membership of the society is 4000 and, though obviously all who attended were not members, several thousands strolled through the grounds.

The Zoo's four chimpanzees gave the exhibition they are accustomed to perform daily, such as eating at a table like humans, walking on a tight rope and riding velocipedes. Speeches by Dieckman and Mayor Miller were brief. The Mayor said the chimpanzees apparently had more intelligence than some politicians. Dieckman appraised the Forest Park Zoo as second to none in the world.

Reinforcements Assigned Places on Battle Front While Headquarters Shift to Headquarters.

By the Associated Press.

FEZ, French Morocco, Sept. 4.—While warships are shelling Abd-el-Krim's headquarters, the battle front is hurrying with activity all along the line for the coming offensive.

Reinforcements are being rapidly slipped into places assigned to them, in the plan of action formulated by Marshal Petain and General Naubin. Headquarters reports that the troops are straining at the leash, being aware that the moment for the big push forward is close at hand.

The air service is doing most of the fighting at present. The two flying columns which are said to have routed a strong enemy group Wednesday from the Arzegu River, near Fez-el-Bail, were declared at headquarters today to be following up their success pursuing the retreating enemy northward across the Ouzurga River and inflicting losses by artillery fire and the guns in the armored cars.

EARLY COMPLETION OF AQUARIUM PROMISED

Mayor Miller Tells Zoological Society He Will Direct Efforts to That End.

A promise that, so far as his efforts could avail, the new aquarium in Forest Park Zoo would be completed "at this time next year," was made by Mayor Miller last night to the Zoological Society of St. Louis at its annual meeting on the Zoo grounds.

An appropriation of $400,000 for an aquarium was one of the items of the bond issue. Plans already drawn to complete an aquarium not unlike, in exterior appearance, the new monkey house, which last night was estimated by George C. Dickman, president of the society, to be "the finest in the world."

Like the monkey house, also, it is desired to make the aquarium comfortable and pleasing for visitors as well as suitable for adequate display of fish in surroundings that simulate their native habitats.

The meeting of the Zoological Society had the aspects of a fête. The grounds were illuminated, a space in the plaza west of the lion house was carpeted for dancing, fireworks were shot off in front of the monkey house and all of the buildings were open for visitors. The membership of the society is 4000 and, though obviously all who attended were not members, several thousands strolled through the grounds.

The Zoo's four chimpanzees gave the exhibition they are accustomed to perform daily, such as eating at a table like humans, walking on a tight rope and riding velocipedes. Speeches by Dickman and Mayor Miller were brief. The Mayor said the chimpanzees apparently had more intelligence than some politicians. Dickman appraised the Forest Park Zoo as second to none in the world.

Other divorces granted by the Paris courts to Americans were: Mrs. Frederick March, formerly Kate E. Sessions, from her husband on grounds of abandonment in Washington in 1916.

FRENCH LINE ACTIVE AS OFFENSIVE PLANS TAKE SHAPE

Reinforcements Assigned Places on Battle Front While Warships Shell Riff Headquarters.

FEZ, French Morocco, Sept. 4.—While warships are shelling Abdel-Krim's headquarters, the battle front is burning with activity all along the line for the coming offensive. Reinforcements are being rapidly slipped into places assigned to them, in the plan of action formulated by Marshal Petain and General Naulin. Headquarters reports that the troops are straining at the leash, being aware that the moment for the big push forward is close at hand.

MAKING FACES AT TEACHER

A TEACHER in Southeast Missouri had four children arrested for making faces at her. They have been discharged by the judge on the ground that making faces is no crime.

The judge has the moral support of persons who remember their youth. He said that they side against the teacher, or that they approve the practice of making faces, or that they would contend that such conduct is not exasperating. Still it has to be admitted that school discipline is rather trying on the young human animal, and that nervous energy suppressed under the watchful eye on the platform must have an outlet.

SAVING THE COP'S BREATH

From the Worcester Telegram.

PROVIDENCE traffic officers have white lines which are blown by a series of balloons worked by hand. It was found that constant blowing with the mouth tended to develop mumps. Boys like to blow whistles, but if they had to blow nearly continuously for eight hours at a stretch they would soon find the pleasure gone. The hand-worked whistle means an advance in the officer's comfort, and hence in his efficiency.

A. A. BUSCH FOUND U. S. SHIP "DRY" THIS VOYAGE

St. Louis on a Former Trip to Europe Complained of "Wetness" of the George Washington.

August A. Busch, president of Anheuser-Busch, Inc., will return to St. Louis within a few weeks from his summer home at Cooperstown, N. Y., where he went yesterday after his arrival from a brief visit to his mother, Mrs. Adolphus Busch, in Germany.

In New York yesterday Busch commented on the "dry" condition of the United States Shipping Board vessel George Washington, on which he made the return voyage. In the past he had occasion to complain of the sale of liquor on the same ship. Passengers on the George Washington must not carry their private supply of liquor or go thirsty, he said. Busch's son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Hager, and a cousin, August Busch, accompanied him.

FORMER CHIEF OF POLICE YOUNG DIES AT AGE OF 70

He Had Been Ill for Several Years and Was Bedfast the Last Four Months From Cancer.

FUNERAL SERVICES TO BE HELD TOMORROW

Connected With Department 45 Years, He Served Nine as Chief and Four as Commissioner.

The funeral of William Young, 70 years old, former Chief of Police, who died of cancer yesterday afternoon at his home, 1727A Longfellow place, will be held at 2 p. m. tomorrow from an undertaking establishment at 3025 Lafayette avenue, to Valhalla Cemetery.

Young had been in ill health for several years and was bedfast for the last four months. Mrs. Young died two years ago. There are no children. Three brothers and three sisters survive.

At the weekly meeting of the Police Board this afternoon, Chief of Police Gerk will confer with the Commissioners regarding police honors at Young's funeral. Chief Gerk said a police band and escort probably would attend the services, although Young was not connected with the department at his death. Chief Gerk praised Young as a "grand character," who had devoted most of his life to police duty.

For 45 years Young was connected with the St. Louis Police Department. He was Chief of Police for nine years and a member of the Board of Police Commissioners for four years. As chief he was accorded the police title of Colonel. His interest in police work predated his appointment as a patrolman, for as a boy he used to accompany the policemen who walked beats around his home in North St. Louis.

Also Had Business Interests.

In the period when he was not active as a policeman, Young was a business man and a farmer. He was vice president of the Fleming-Young Coal Co., and a director of the Jefferson-Gravels Bank. Many of his recreation days were spent on his farm in Crawford County. Young was of military bearing, and a giant physically. He stood six feet in his stocking feet and weighed about 250 when in health. During his last illness he lost considerable weight.

At the time of his appointment as Chief, in 1910, a newspaper estimated his fortune at upward of $100,000, but Young would only say he was on "easy street."

Reared in St. Louis County.

He was born on his father's farm on the Bellefontaine road, and was educated in the public schools of St. Louis County. His family later moved to the Crawford County homestead, near Cuba, Mo.

At the age of 23 Young was appointed a probationary patrolman, and was assigned to a beat in the "Bloody Third" District, as it was called, because of the "bad men" and bad women, who held rendezvous there. Twice while the new "copper" was patrolling his beat, between the river and Second street, Clark avenue and Plum street, hoodlums emphasized their dislike by shooting at him. Their aim was poor, and they went down before the swish of his nightstick.

Three years of this, and Young was assigned to tame the so-called "Bowery" along Market street, where prize fighters and their admirers congregated. Fights were frequent, but he survived. In 1884, after six years on the force, he was promoted to Sergeant, and in 1889 he was made a Captain.

Faced Charges Twice.

Twice in his police career charges were preferred against Young, and twice he obtained what he regarded as vindication. In 1894 he resigned his captaincy, when charges of misconduct were made against him. Four months later he was reinstated and had the satisfaction of being made Chief of Police in 1910.

In 1919, as Chief, he was tried before the Police Board on charges, some of which revolved about his friendship with "Hank" Weeks, Republican politician. He was acquitted of the more serious charges, but held blameworthy in minor matters, and was reduced to a captaincy. He resigned. He strove unceasingly for vindication in the public mind, and when Gov. Hyde came into power in 1921 Young became treasurer of the new Police Board, serving until his term expired last April.

Young long held the title of "handsomest bachelor on the force," but lost it in 1901, when he married a member of a wealthy family of Schell City, whom he had known in his childhood. Grief over her death, two years ago, is believed to have been a contributing cause to his death.

FORMER CHIEF OF POLICE WHO IS DEAD

One of the anecdotes told about Chief Young dates back to when he was in command of the World's Fair district. He attended a horse show on the exposition grounds one afternoon and, in a spirit of fun, induced one of the arena judges to pin a grand champion ribbon on the bride of Young's horse, admittedly a plug.

"I then drove through the grounds," Young related, "and had lots of fun listening to the comments on the fine points of my old plug. It only goes to show how easy it is to fool some people."

Another story concerns Young and Constable "Snitch" Murphy, a bully, who in the latter years of his stormy life bore a score of scars on his skull, many of which were credited to Young's club. An unusual thing about the scars was that three of them formed a large letter, "Y." "Snitch" was always ready to fight whenever anyone insulted Young had beaten his initial into his foe's skull.

A newsboy was arrested for fighting a patrolman, who booked the boy for Police Court. He never went to court, however, as Young, then Captain, gave him a fatherly talk, admonished him against disturbing the peace, and sent him back to his corner to sell his papers.

German Envoy Expresses Sympathy.

SWAMPSCOTT, Mass., Sept. 4.—On learning of the Shenandoah disaster, Von Maltzan, the German Ambassador, who is summering at Magnolia, near here, motored to White Court to extend to President Coolidge the sympathy of his Government.

AUTO USED IN $4000 BANK HOLDUP FOUND

Men in Robbery at Ferguson
Had Left the Car. Also Stolen, in Pine Lawn.

Several hours after the Bank of Ferguson was held up, yesterday
noon, by two armed robbers, who escaped in an automobile with $1135 of the bank funds, the automobile used by the robbers was found abandoned in Pine Lawn.

The automobile, a Buick touring car, was identified as that of Martin C. Nail of Fulton, Ky., who reported it stolen from Fifteenth street and Washington avenue,
Aug. 6.

The robbery was accomplished
in a few minutes. Two officials—
R. E. Studebaker, the assistant cas-hler, and Harry A. Bindbeutel, the bookkeeper—and a customer, the Rev. Herbert Claus, pastor of Zion
Lutheran Church, were in the bank
when, at 12:15 p. m., the two armed robbers entered.

One of the robbers ordered the cashier to open the safe, while the other forced the pastor and the bookkeeper to sit on the floor.
While the safe was being opened one of the robbers scooped up the currency from the teller's cage into a sack, to which was added the contents of the safe. The loot represented virtually all the cash funds in the bank. The robbers ran out and climbed into their waiting automobile.

WINTER WHEAT AVERAGE LARGER THAN LAST YEAR'S
Department of Agriculture Estimates Increase, Based on Reported Intentions, at 40 Per Cent.

By the Associated Press
WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—American winter wheat production this season will exceed domestic requirements, on the basis of the recent intentions to plant report,
the Department of Agriculture announced and the surplus here will face increasing production abroad
in the world market.

A winter wheat crop of 586,000-000 bushels will be produced, the department said, if the farmers adhere to their plans to plant about 4,000,000 acres more than last year, and if the per-acre yield is 14.5 bushels, the 10-year average.

This would be about 40 per cent
more than last winter's crop and,
coupled with the spring harvest,
which the statement said had averaged 253,000,000 for the past five years, would produce an ex-portable surplus of between 149-000,000 and 240,000,000 bushels.

Post-war expansion in Europe
after war-time slump, the department declared had extended now until 19 countries the acreage is 92 per cent of the estimated pre-war average, while Australia, Argentina and Canada have a combined wheat acreage about 53 per cent greater than the pre-war average.

DETECTIVE RECOVERS LOOT BEFORE ROBBERY IS REPORTED

Detective-Sergeant Mulcahy of the gambling squad hoped to find policy tickets when he searched a negro at Jefferson avenue and Mills street yesterday, but instead he found $300 worth of burglary loot
and solved a robbery before it had been reported.

The negro, who said he was Charles Winslow of 3031 Bell avenue, had a watch, necklace and three rings in his pocket and finally told Mulcahy he had got them
from an apartment at 1013 Selby place. Investigation showed the apartment had been robbed. Its tenant, Mrs. Mollie Freulich, who was in City Hospital and had not heard of the robbery, identified the jewelry in Winslow's pockets as her own.

CAVE REPLIES TO GARY ON ROAD INJUNCTION

Intimates Chairman of Highway Board Is Not Familiar With Law.

By the Associated Press.
FULTON, Mo., Sept. 4.—State Senator Nick T. Cave of this city, attorney for the 18 Fulton and South Calloway County taxpayers who filed the injunction suit over changing the location of Highway
No. 2, the Kansas City-St. Louis cross-State road, to a point seven miles north of Fulton, today replied to the statement made yesterday by Theodore Gary, chairman of the State Highway Commission, relative to the injunction. Chairman Gary declared the commission acted within the law in changing the route of the highway and asserted the charges of "insincerity"
and "lawlessness" made against the commission by the injunctioners
"are based on suspicion, inducted with interest."
Senator Cave's reply vigorously answered the Gary statement, questioned the highway chairman's construction of the road law and charged him with "lack of familiarity" with the law.
It denied the road would be nine miles longer if routed through Fulton and asserted measurements
with highway department instruments on highway department
maps showed it would be only two and three-fourths miles longer.
Additional information has come to him since the injunction suit was filed, Senator Cave declared, relative to "other violations" of the law
by the Highway Commission and his reply intimated the petition
probably would be added to and strengthened and the added information brought into the trial.

by a light automobile truck as she was crossing Russell avenue at Grand boulevard. The driver, Bennett Hay of 3543 Arsenal street,
was arrested.

Mrs. Margaret Smith, 76, a widow, of Barnhart, Mo., suffered internal injuries and several fractured ribs, and Jacob Kraus, 57, of

REMOVAL OF OFFICES OF MASONIC BODIES PROPOSED
Transfer From Here to Trenton, Mo., Assailed in the Local Publication, Missouri Freeman.

The proposed removal from St.
Louis to Trenton, Mo., of the offices of the Grand Commandery of Knights Templar, the Grand Chapter of Royal Arch Masons and the Grand Council of Royal and Select Masons is attributed to "political desires" and "personal convenience" in the issue of the Missouri Freemason, out tomorrow.
"Those who are planning this removal should think carefully of all the angles of the case before taking a step which is certain to develop unpleasant consequences if persisted in," says the publication, which is edited by F. H. Littlefield. He adds that no officer or group of officers is in the right to make such a move without a vote
by the grand bodies involved.
Ray V. Denslow, grand secretary of the three lodges, is said to favor the move to Trenton. He formerly resided at Trenton.

FACE BROKE OUT WITH PIMPLES

Itched and Burned Constantly.
Lost Sleep. Cuticura Heals.

"My face broke out with hard,
red, very sore pimples. They itched and burned constantly and nearly drove me mad. Later they broke out on my body and I could not sleep for quite a while. I tried everything but got no benefit; they were terrible. A friend recommended Cuticura Soap and Ointment so I purchased some. After a few applications I got relief. I continued the treatment and in the course of a few weeks I was completely healed."

A Car Unequaled In Looks, Price and Results

Consider the Chrysler Four from any standpoint—of design, of craftsmanship and of performance—and you readily find the reason for the sweeping public demand
for it.

Put the Chrysler Four through its paces. Drive it in the thickest of traffic and you will be delighted by its lightning-like, effortless acceleration. Chrysler hydraulic four-wheel brakes,
now first offered on a car of this price at slight extra cost,

complete the feeling of utmost safety and ease of handling.

Take the open road. Step the Chrysler Four up to your speed and keep it there. You discover a tremendous energy and stamina, coupled with extreme quietness of performance and marked absence of vibration.

You will find that the Chrysler Four gives and does what no other car at its price
can equal in power, speed,
fuel mileage, acceleration,

smoothness, ease of riding
and handling.

All this is the result of a new application to proven four-cylinder principles of the same scientific engineering,
and the same precision of manufacture with the same prodigious use of fine alloy steels, so characteristic of its companion car, the Chrysler Six.

Come in—we are eager to have you get acquainted with this most remarkable value in the industry.

OLD HOUSEWIFELY ART ON DISPLAY AT FAIR

Prizes Offered in County for Best Quilt, Bedspread and Homemade Soap.

If, as critics of the times declare, the old housewifely arts are slowly falling into disuse, they have a place, for this week at least, at the St. Louis County Fair, which opened yesterday at Upper Creve Coeur Lake.

The shrine of the old arts, that have languished and faded before the can opener and the delicatessen, the efficiency apartment and the vacuum cleaner, the ready-to-wear store and the electric washing machine, is a long, rambling building set on the edge of the fair grounds next the farm products exhibits and far from the automobile booths and other modern departments that have stripped the fair of its old atmosphere.

Here, entering the shrine, one is confronted with a brilliant array of bright quilts, zealously guarded by one of the contributors. Later in the week judges will award a ribbon for the best silk quilt and like recognition for the best in the woolen, calico, artistically etched and etched (child's) quilts, as the program has it.

An Array of Bedspreads.
Here, too, is an array of bedspreads divided into classes accordingly as they are crocheted, knitted, fancy, applique or fall into the class of contenders for the "best French knot" prize. Farther on there are bed sets, pillow slips, including the "best French knot and lazy daisy class," sofa pillows, bags and baskets, towels, centerpieces, dollies and dozens of other articles of needlework.

A more interesting department to the masculine eye is the far end of the building, where are grouped the entries in the canned fruits. Here are ranks of jars filled with luscious cherries, strawberries, peaches, pear, quinces and the other products of St. Louis County orchards, preserved by busy housewives against the coming of winter.

Vegetables too, there are. Preserved tomatoes, canned corn, peas, string beans and a dozen other truck garden products, as inviting as the fruit. Just a little farther on is the cake department, where one pauses with watering mouth to regard the entries for the best chocolate cake, best coconut cake, best maple nut cake, best—but why add to longing?

Nor are the domestic displays confined only to the higher products of the housewife's skill. There are entries too, for the best home-made lard and the best home-made butter, the best display of home-made vinegars, three varieties, and the best bread. And to complete the display there are contenders for the prizes to be given for the "best home-made soap (cooked)" and the best home-made soap (cold method)."

And plenty of entries in all classes. Let the critics of the times visit the County Fair!

Farm Entries.
In the fairgrounds to the north of the home exhibits, a steady cloud of fine white dust hangs over the crowd strolling about among the exhibits, and one hears exclamations over the excellence of such and such an ear of corn, the apparent succulence of an entry for the prize squash, or the size of a Belgian hare in one of the booths.

There is a constant cry of exhibitors in the booths and the steady drumming of a gasoline engine which is driving a sample farm power plant on the edge of the fairgrounds. The crisp odor of cooking "hot dogs" mingles with the acid fumes from automobile exhausts.

Looking between the white-washed trucks of the trees that shade the fairgrounds one sees the long low stables which house the entries for the livestock contests. On the track a race horse, his ankles bandaged, walks gingerly behind a groom and shies suddenly as he comes within view of a patient tree sprayer throwing a cloud of vapor into the air.

This afternoon a cloud of dust will go up and there will be a drumming of hoofs as the races get under way. What if the entries never have raced with Man-of-War? If they never have appeared in the same state with Mad Play or Black Gold? There will be a contest anyhow and a chance for everyone to bask in the old County Fair atmosphere—a chance that will be there until Monday evening, when the fair closes.

WOODBINE'S CUSTOMER LIST SEIZED IN RAID

Dry Agent Succeeds in Getting Name in Book Containing Men "in Good Standing."

A book containing an alphabetical list of 300 customers in good standing at the Woodbine bar, 108
North Sixth street, was seized by Federal prohibition agents last night in a raid in which the agents
found a bottle of whisky.

The raid was made at 8 o'clock,
when persons were passing on their way to theaters, and a crowd of several hundred gathered to watch
the progress of the search.

The existence of the customer list became known two weeks ago when an agent visited the place and asked for a drink. He was told there was nothing to be had.

"And anyhow," the bartender
added, "I don't know you."

"Well, so-and-so sent me here,"
the agent said. "He knows I'm all right."

The bartender turned to a book behind the bar and looked down a list of names. Finally he found
"So-and-so."

"Got Name in Book,"
the agent said, turning back to the agent. "What'll it be?"

On the strength of that visit the agent had his own name entered in the book. Later, he reported, he made two more purchases of whisky upon the basis of which he got a search warrant. His name was still in the book when it was seized last night.

At the conclusion of the raid Patrick W. Holden, 517 Walnut street, who was behind the bar, was charged with violating the Volstead act.

Sidewalk Speech Draws Crowd After Raid on Hob-Nob Cafe.

A crowd gathered in front of the Hob-Nob Cafe, 410 North Twelfth boulevard, during a raid by prohibition agents at the noon hour yesterday, and for a time it looked as though there might be need of a riot call.

The agents reported the crowd gathered when Julius H. Wise, head of the Wise Construction Co., 319 North Ninth street, made a sidewalk speech in opposition to their activities. After Wise had been arrested the crowd dispersed.

Agents say that Wise and another man were talking to Herman Fingst, proprietor, when they entered. All three were searched.
Wise, according to the report, became abusive and was ejected.
Later, after he had been arrested,
he was taken to the Federal building, lectured by United States Attorney Curry, and released.

The agents reported seizing a list of whisky and arrested Fingst and Joseph Vierling, who was behind the bar, charged with violating the Volstead act. A score or more of diners in the place
were allowed to finish their lunches uninterrupted and none was searched.

"The action taken by Mr. Wise in lecturing the crowd outside the cafe was highly subversive of good order and might have caused a riot," District Attorney Curry said today. "As it happened no damage was done and a lecture was sufficient punishment for him."

120 Bottles of "Beverage" in Confectionery Basement.

When Police Lieut. Maloney was a boy, confectioneries were frequently almost exclusively by children who had pennies to spend for state pencils, licorice whips, and lollypops. Perhaps that was why the sight of five men sealed about a table in a confectionery at 4103
St. Louis avenue yesterday impressed Lieut. Maloney as worthy of investigation.

As he entered the door, he saw the chief objects of interest at the table were two tin buckets. The contents looked and smelled like beer, Maloney reported. Down in the basement, he reported, he found 120 bottles of the same beverage. A man at work there captured bottles said he was Dan Don-aher, a tuck pointer, of 4522 St.
Louis avenue, and explained he had interrupted his work of tuck-pointing for a while to cap bottles. Maloney interrupted his work of capping bottles to take him to the nearest holdover. The confectionery, the police reported, is operated by John G. Murphy.

There were 10 men and two women in a saloon at 1429 North Vanderbilt when police entered last night. There were 12 voices raised to jeer the raiders.
There were 12 passengers in the patrol wagon that backed up to the door a few minutes later. The raiders reported they found a bottle of beer in the place. Later the 10 customers were released, but the proprietors, Cleve Deneberger and Henry Curtis, were held.

Eight Men Arrested in Saloon.

Eight men were arrested in a raid on a saloon at 4131 Easton avenue yesterday after a search of an apartment upstairs had netted
what the police declare was a half barrel of beer, 10 gallons of whisky

and a quantity of beer mash.

Roy Bickerton, proprietor of the Schneider Hotel, 1104 South Fourth street, was arrested when police entered the place, finding 90 gallons of beer mash and 30 gallons of whisky mash in a stable in the rear.

Fourteen hundred gallons of whisky mash were found in a garage in rear of 2023 Glasgow avenue
at 2 p. m. and John Barnett, a respected working in the place, was arrested. Barnett pointed out a white man for whom he said he worked and he, too, was arrested. The garage is the property of Mrs.

Goldie Bendersky of the Glasgow avenue address, who said she rented it to a man six weeks ago.

FREEDOM DELIGHTS

TURKISH WOMEN

They Discard Veils and Adopt Western Fashions—Country Shows Improvement.

By JUNIUS B. WOOD.

Special Correspondence of the Post-Dispatch and the Chicago Daily News. (Copyright, 1925.)

ANGORA, Turkey, July 18.—Separation of church and state and freedom for women are two principles of the Turkish republic that have received most discussion in the outside world. Both have received popular approval and it is doubtful if the old order could be restored, even should a new Government come into power.

The great mosques of Constantinople no longer have their crowds of worshippers. On ordinary days tourists are as numerous as the faithful on the prayer rugs facing toward Mecca. If now a Turk does not go to a mosque he is not ostracized. Some assert that the aim of the present Government is to abolish all religion. Still the Koran is studied for two hours in Moslem schools and all business houses must close on Friday, the Moslem Sabbath. Other religions, either Christian or Jewish, are not prohibited, but no religion different from that taught in their homes may be taught in schools to children under 18 years of age.

The unwritten law that formerly required Turkish women to wear veils and men to wear the fez, or clasp, has been annulled. Cities are quicker than the country to adopt the changes. In Turkish cities few women are veiled now, and the attractiveness of their faces indicates how strong must have been their regard for custom to keep them veiled. Some are wearing modern millinery in place of the more attractive, charcheff, or tightly wrapped scarf, around the head. They attend public meetings, have their clubs and charitable organizations, accompany their husbands to outdoor gardens for coffee. This would have started a riot two years ago. Some even venture to the outdoor cabaret run by an American negro, where the elite of Constantinople daily until the morning hours.

Turkey will never put its fair citizens back to the old life of veiled seclusion. No politician would have the courage to try and few would want now to have the charms hidden.

Turkey has accomplished other things that do not appeal so much to the picturesque. It is building railroads in Asia Minor, pushing the line from Angora to Sivas toward completion. About 125 miles of this, including 22 tunnels and 12 bridges, are reported as finished. Sixty miles, including eight tunnels and 12 bridges, have been completed on the Samsun-Sivas line, where 7500 men are employed.

Building railroads is not an unusual accomplishment, but for a country whose resources are strained to the utmost and one that is using every means to avoid a deficit each year, such an expenditure of funds indicates a determination to provide for the future. The railroads of Turkey are now run by the Government, not without some question of compensating their former owners, with only Turkish officials, engineers, mechanics and other employees.

When the Greeks were exiled from Asia Minor it was said that fig and raisin exports from Smyrna were finished. In the first following year they were only a fraction of the past average. But gradually they have increased until this year the exports promise to be more than ever before. The Turkish farmer has been equally surprising in his accomplishments in other parts of Asia Minor. Many of them are refugees from Russia, Greece and other countries in the Balkans. They have been handicapped, but industrious. They have brought new methods and the Government is showing them more, partly through Ghazi Mustafa Kemal Pasha's model farm. With peace, Turkey should become important as an agricultural country.

Little of burned Smyrna has been rebuilt, though the town is growing in importance as a port. Most of the towns and villages and all the railroad bridges which the retreating Greek army destroyed in its path from Angora across Asia Minor have been restored.

Angora Shows Improvement.

Angora was a malaria-ridden city of mud houses and few pretentious buildings when it last became a capital. German and Hungarian contractors, working for smaller profits than would satisfy an American, have built hundreds of houses. Two schools, side by side, one for boys and the other for girls, have been named after the ghazi and his wife. The assembly building is new. Work on a pretentious two-story hotel across the street has lagged since it was discovered that the plans did not call for stairways. The capital in the plains has hotels, but the only baths in town are at the public bathhouse. Foreign Governments have representatives in Angora, but few have moved their legation from the more congenial surroundings of Constantinople.

The new city of Angora lies between the rugged old citadel and a swamp with an unlimited crop of mosquitoes. This year a drainage ditch three miles long was dug and soldiers are spraying the remaining pools with petrol. Even digging a ditch is a problem, as going too deep would bring more water instead of draining the swamp.

OF CLASS ONE RAILWAYS

Railroads Economic Bureau Claims $25,094,446 Gain Over Same Month Last Year.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—The net operating income of class one railroads in July was $99,462,735, the Bureau of Railway Economics, maintained by the railroads of the country, announced today, the figure being an increase of $25,094,446 over the same month of last year.

The statement, based on reports filed with the Interstate Commerce Commission, said net operating income of these roads for the first seven months of 1935 amounted to $537,145,541, compared with $466,718,935 for the same period of last year. Based on property values fixed by the carriers, the seven months' income represented an annual rate of return of 4.53 per cent, compared with 4.36 per cent for the same period last year.

Gross revenues of the class one carriers in July were given at $22,454,600, an increase of $40,000,840, or 8.4 per cent over the same month of 1934.

Operating expenses were placed at $23,905,960, an increase of $12,804,570, only 5.5 per cent over expenses of July, 1934, while freight traffic in July this year measured in net ton-miles was approximately 14 per cent greater than in the same month of last year. The statement said 24 class one roads operated at a loss during July, six in the Eastern district, one in the Southern and 17 in the Western.

SAYS HUSBAND THREATENED

TO END LIFE UNLESS SHE LEFT

Wife of Dr. John Paul Jones, East St. Louis Dentist, Sues for Divorce.

Suit for divorce from Dr. John Paul Jones, an East St. Louis dentist, was filed in Circuit Court at Belleville yesterday by Mrs. Nellie Farthing Jones, who alleges in her petition that her husband threatened to kill himself unless she left their home.

The couple was married July 13 last, and separated Aug. 15 after Dr. Jones made his threat, the petition recites.

An injunction, restraining Dr. Jones from disposing of his property and from withdrawing his money from the First National Bank of East St. Louis pending trial of the suit, was granted by Judge Crow on application of Mrs. Jones, who alleges that her husband has real and personal property valued at $30,000 and has an income of $10,000 a year.

Mrs. Jones, who was formerly a teacher in the East St. Louis public schools, asks alimony, the amount to be fixed by the Court. Dr. Jones could not be reached for a statement.

SYLVIA MULLEN AGAIN MISSING

She Was One of the Girls Considered for Adoption by Edw. Browning.

NEW YORK, Sept. 4.—Sylvia Mullen, 12 years old, with bobbed hair, a blonde, of the Bronx, who was second choice for adoption by Edward W. Browning, was missing today for the second time in a month.

Reporting the matter to the police, Mrs. Frances Mullen, her mother, expressed fear that her daughter had been kidnapped, because a few days ago she intercepted a note from a man asking the girl to meet him. The girl left home at 4 a. m. yesterday. The first time she disappeared she was found asleep at home. Sylvia was runner-up to Mary Louise Spas in a Cinderella adoption contest by Brownin, a wealthy real estate operator. The adoption of Mary was rescinded later.

49 Riders Take Final Practice
For Bike Race

All Sections of United States Represented—Races Saturday and Sunday.

Forty-nine bicycle riders from all parts of the country held the final work-out here today in preparation for the National Bicycle championships to be held tomorrow afternoon and Sunday morning at Forest Park. The races tomorrow will start at 2 o'clock.

The riders, 25 of whom arrived yesterday, showed little speed, although they were all well and apparently satisfied with two or three sprints and a walk. They will begin their riding between now and race time, just enough to keep their muscles limber.

The only mishap which has occurred since the boys arrived at Forest Park was a broken wheel which occurred this morning. William, from Indiana, riding in the senior division, fell during one of the sprints. He suffered a minor scratch and a bruise on his head,
but the trainers immediately took care of him and stated that he would be ready to face the start tomorrow.

The Latest Arrivals.
The riders to arrive yesterday
are as follows:

T. Horton and T. Dixon, senior and junior, from Arkansas; Lawrence Gordon and Irving McVicker, senior and junior, from Colorado; E. Everts

BOBBY JONES 4 UP, GUNN 1 UP AFTER 18 HOLES OF SEMIFINALS

Champion Shoots 71 for Lead Over Von Elm,
A Finalist Last Year

Dick Jones Sinks 30-Foot Putt, Most Sensational Shot of National Amateur Championship Meet.

OAKMONT, Pa., Sept. 4.—Bobby Jones, the champion, was four up on George Von Elm of Los Angeles at the end of the morning 18 holes in their semifinal match of the national amateur golf championship here today.

Watts Gunn of Atlanta, was one up on Dick Jones of White Plains, N. Y.

They play 18 holes more this afternoon.

Bobby Jones shot a 71, one under par, to gain his lead over the man who last year, in the tournament at Merion, met him in the final round. Birdies were frequent and Von Elm had an eagle
three at the ninth by means of a marvelous pitch which dropped dead about two feet from the pin.

Young Gunn, who disposed of Jesse Sweetser yesterday experiencing a lot of trouble in gaining the advantage over Dick Jones. The lead was saved, Gunn's inability to find himself on the greens causing him to have only the one hole margin at the home hole.

At the eighteenth, Dick Jones,
who reached the green in two,
made the most spectacular shot of the round. He sank a 30-foot putt for a birdie three.

Bobby Wins No. 1.
The sun was breaking through as Bobby Jones and Von Elm started, with Jones first to drive, sending
the ball about 200 yards.

Von Elm was trapped to the right
and came out to the brow of the hill.
Bobby's second shot just missed an eagle. Von Elm conceding the birdie four when his putt for a five failed. Jones one up.

Jones took a lead of two up with a birdie three at the second, his pitch dropping four feet from the cup. Von Elm had a par four.

Jones put from off the edge of the green on the third stopped six inches from the hole and they halved in four.

Von Elm was trapped badly to the right on the fourth and barely escaped to the fairway. He sliced his brassie, while Jones covered the 534 yards in two, resting on the edge of the green. Von Elm's fourth crossed the green to a trap and he conceded his opponent a birdie four. Bobby was three up.

They halved the sixth in five when both missed putts of less than 5 feet.

The champion added another at the sixth with a three by a perfect
pitch from a trap to the right.
While Von Elm buried deeply in the sand on his tee shot, nibbled across the green twice and picked up. Jones was four up.

Von Elm recovered nicely from a hook to the rough on the seventh,
but missed his second putt of six feet. Jones did the same, however,
and it was a half in five.

Both were on at the eighth from the tee and another half in par
three was the result. Von Elm was within six inches of dropping his second.

Von Elm gained back a hole with an eagle three, his spoon dropping the ball three feet from the pin, by far the best shot of the nine. Bobbie had a birdie four, with two putts on the green.

His cards:
Jones out, 434 433 534—35
Von Elm out, 444 756 533—43

Both Score Birdies.
Jones was just short with his second on the tenth while Von Elm barely reached. Bobby missed a six-foot putt, which laid his opponent a dead stymie, and they halved in five. It was a bad break for Von Elm.

Jones' second on the eleventh went through the crowd behind the green and he came out well, but lost the hole when Von Elm dropped a 20-foot putt for a birdie
three. Jones was two up.

Von Elm was bunkered to the left from the twelfth tee and had to chip to the fairway, while Jones'
brassie second was 20 yards short of the green. Von Elm reached with his fourth, but the hole went to Jones with a birdie four, his chip stopping a foot from the cup.

Von Elm sank a 35-foot putt for a birdie two to win the thirteenth while Jones was 20 feet from the cup when he exploded from a trap on his second. Von Elm again was two down.

The Californian hooked to the traps on the fourteenth while Jones

JOE and ASBESTOS—Asbestos Gives Joe a Little Organ Recital of His Own

ASBESTOS WIRES "MARIAL BARTON," FIRST RACE, CONEY ISLAND, AS LATE SPECIAL.

District Net Tourney Will Open Tomorrow

The St. Louis district tennis tournament will start tomorrow afternoon on the courts of the Triple A Club in Forest Park. The entry list closed this morning.

Ted Drewes, national municipal champion, will be among the favorites to win the title. Other prominent contestants are Karl Kamman, Memphis champion; Teddy Egkman of East St. Louis, Joe Smith, junior champion; Bill Bascom,
boys' champion, and Charlie Barnes.

Two former Washington University football players of note, Dr. Al Marquard and Monroe "Fog" Lewis, will try their hand at tournament play for the first time. They have been playing considerably in the past few years and will be pioneers in the doubles division.

Ted Drewes will play with Ed
Serrano in the doubles division.

With an open date today, the Browns will continue the battle
with the White Sox tomorrow. Joe Giard and Ted Lyons probably will be the rival hurlers in the second clash. But the Browns cannot gain third position in the current set as Collins' men are 2½ games to the good.

But concerning the Browns' fight,
they opened it as early as the second round. This time
"Brick" Owens was the target.
With two on, Kamn hit a grounder to Robertson. The third struck made a none too good throw to the shortstop.

On the next Bill Dinneen, behind the bat, was the target. It came in the local third with Joe Bush at bat. Bush was called out on strikes. He protested by tossing his bat into the air. Jimmy Austin, coaching at third, became noisy
and was told to depart to the shades of the dugout for the reminder of the day. Argument No.
2 lost.

There was a mild protest in the seventh. The Browns tied two men on the bases when Gene Robertson started a liner towards right.
Harry Hooper, who starred in the world's series away back in 1912, leaped up against the wall for the sphere. He juggled it, but grabbed it again as it came down. That catch robbed the Browns of a ball game.

The Browns put up the contention that the sphere had hit the fence and not Hooper's glove. But it was not the Browns' day to win arguments so they lost again.

About Money Difference.
But to get at the reason for the Browns' fighting spirit. An extra piece of money is starting them in the face. This season, four instead of three clubs, get in on the big series spoils. It is the first time it has ever happened. And the third place's bit will amount to another time as much as that of the fourth place outfit.

The world's series pool this year will be split as follows: 60 per cent of the receipts at the first four games go to the players' pool.
Of this 70 per cent goes to the contending clubs to be divided 60
to the winners and 40 to the loser.

The remaining 30 per cent goes
to second, third and fourth teams, to be apportioned 50 per cent to second, 33 1/3 to third and 16 2/3
to fourth.

That money difference is enough to make any ball player fight. And that's why the remaining two clashes of the Brown-White Sox series will be real battles. The athletes of both clubs get in on that extra 16 2/3 per cent to help carry them over the winter.

Blankenship Is Hero.
Ted Blankenship was the hero of the opener. He held the Browns to five well scattered hits. Joe Bush started for Slater. He was batted in spots and was the victim of poor fielding on the part of his mates. Mangilder and Danforth flashed in style.

A crowd estimated at 6500 witnessed the battle.

Johnny Kane, a former Cardinal,
made his debut with the White Sox.
He played second in place of the injured Manager Eddie Collins. He was purchased from Houston. He failed to get a safety, but in the field he handled eight chances clearly.

Marty McManus made several brilliant stops at second base. Among the outfielders, Mostil, Jacobson and, of course, Hooper, were the outstanding lights.

Blankenship was a big help to

Browns Lose First Game of Series to White Sox, 3 to 1

Sisler's Men Also Drop Three Arguments to Umpires—Extra 16 2/3 Per Cent of World's Series Spoils Plenty of Fight in St. Louis Team.

By Herman Wecke.
Those Brownies of George Sisler are fighting. They want third place in the American League flag race and that extra money from the world's series pool. And fight it was all the way through in the opener with the White Sox. But fight as they did, the Browns were stopped, 3-1, and as a result lost a full lap in their battle to gain the coveted position.

With an open date today, the
Browns will continue the battle

Ruth Offers to Pitch Every 5th Game for Yanks

Will Make the Proposition to Huggins on Return to Game
Sunday or Monday.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, Sept. 4.—Babe
Ruth won't be allowed to get back into the Yankee lineup, from which he was dropped in St. Louis, last Saturday, until Sunday or Monday
despite his pleadings to be allowed to wield a bat against the Philadelphia Athletics when the contenders for the American League championship open their series
here.

Huggins would give no indication of the time for the return of Ruth. He wouldn't even talk about Ruth and wasn't inclined to talk much about baseball at all.

The first thing the Babe says he is going to do when he is reinstated is to ask Huggins to allow him to pitch every fifth day. He is willing to take a turn in the box and play the outfield the rest of the time. He thinks the work will do him a lot of good, help the Yankees and help him in his batting.

"Arm's as Good as Ever."
"My arm's as good as it ever was," is the confident assertion of the super slugger. "I feel that I haven't been getting enough real hard work in the outfield. I'll get into the pitcher's box and do my self some good, and if I don't absolutely know I won't want to stay."
I know I won't want to stay."

It was said that there was one thing which might sway Huggins into putting Ruth back in the game against the Athletics on Sunday, and that is the fact that some of the Western clubs didn't treat him fairly in that they used their stars against the Yankees and their rookies against the Senators. In the late days of the race. He doesn't wish to be accused of any such partiality by either Connie Mack or Stanley Harris.

Ruth Likely to Play Sunday.
The chances are that when Ruth sees Huggins before the game on Sunday he will be told to get back

Only One All-America Team Out of Nearly 2500 Submitted Coincides With Babe Ruth's

Announcement of the One, Two, Three Selections of the Committee Will Be Made Sunday — Ruth's Team Will Be Announced Tomorrow.

The winners of the three trophies offered for competition in the Post-Dispatch's Babe Ruth All-America team contest were named by the board of judges yesterday,
after a long period of deliberation.
Their names will be published Sunday morning.

Only one of approximately 2500
contestants in the contest hit exactly upon Ruth's pick. Thirty-one contestants were tied for the other two places and the winners of the second and third prizes were decided according to the merit of their letters of explanation, the importance of which has been repeatedly emphasized in the course of the contest.

Babe Ruth's team will appear in tomorrow's paper.

One of the astonishing features of the contest was the unanimity
with which certain players were named, notwithstanding keen competition for all places was looked for.

With a 36-game lead over the Buster Browns and with only 13
more games to play, the Curlees clinched this year's pennant in the National Horseshoe League by winning three out of 16 games at the Angelica Sunday morning at the Fairground.

In the other games Sunday, the Buster Browns will meet the Justin T. Flint team while the Sunset Parkers will meet the Southwest
Nash crew.

There may be another attraction on Sunday. The Yankees are eagerly awaiting word that Mark Koenig,
the new American Association shortstop star, has left St. Paul to report to Huggins. If he gets in time he will be put to work at once, somewhere in the infield.

LORENZ 'ONE UP ON IRWIN AT HALFWAY MARK IN TITLE MATCH

Sunset Golfer Gains Advantage On 18th Green

Irwin Makes Birdie Five on Sixteenth to Get Square in Junior Golf Final.

BELLERIVE COUNTRY CLUB, Sept. 4.—Herbert Lorenz of Sunset went to lunch one up on Judson Irwin of Bellefonte, at noon today, after the first 18 holes of their match here for the St. Louis district junior golf championship. Lorenz gained his advantage by sinking a par three on the home hole, after Irwin had missed a four-foot putt.

Irwin had squared the match on the sixteenth with a birdie five to his opponent's six and they were even on the seventeenth with three.

On the eighteenth, a pitch hole, Irwin's drive just reached the edge of the green. Lorenz's tee shot landed 12 feet from the cup and he laid his approach dead for an easy putt.

Their cards, at this point:
Par, out, 434 444 554—37
Irwin, out, 445 563 554—41
Lorenz, out, 434 554 654—40
Par, in, 444 344 632—35—72
Irwin, in, 454 454 534—38—79
Lorenz, in, 444 444 632—35—73

How They Reached Final.
Irwin reached the final round, yesterday, by eliminating Clarke Morse, 16-year-old star, from the public course in Forest Park, one up in 20 holes, while Lorenz was defeating Thob Lumbattis, another Forest Park shooter, 4 up and 3.

Irwin played steadier golf during the early rounds, but Lorenz showed his ability to produce under pressure in his semifinal match. He was two down, going to nine, but he won this hole with a five and then began a spectacular drive. He won six straight holes and on the first six holes of the second nine he shot one under par, with a birdie three on the fifteenth, where the match ended.

Irwin was fortunate to defeat young Morse and if it had not been for the youngster's inexperience Irwin probably would have dropped out of competition yesterday.

Morse a Good Lead.
Morse was three up after six holes. He then became careless. He hurried on the seventh hole and lost it. On the eighth he hurried his bronze second, a shot from the short rough, and made a mess of the shot. He recovered nicely with his third, but his approach left him a 10-foot putt and when his try for a five bobbed out of the cup Irwin won the hole and became one only down.

Morse made a fine pitch to the ninth hole and ran down a five-foot putt for a birdie three, but that was the last hole he won. Irwin cut down the park last by taking the twelfth, 4 to 5, the four successive holes were halved. Irwin squared the match at the seventeenth hole. Morse sliced his drive, but recovered nicely from short rough on the bank of the lake and had a good chance for a half. He missed, however, and Irwin ran down his putt for a par three and that made it all even.

Morse had another great chance on the eighteenth green. Both were off the green on their pitch shots, and, after their seconds, Irwin was away. He missed his five-foot putt, and all Morse had to do to win the match was to sink one from about four feet. He missed.

Extra Holes Required.
The first extra hole was halved and then on the twentieth Irwin was favored for a break. Morse shot into a bunker near the green. Irwin's ball hit the side of a bunker and kicked at a sharp angle to the green. Morse recovered, pitching to within six feet, but his putt hung on the edge and when Irwin went down in two putts, the 16-year-old youngster from the park was eliminated.

Young Morse will be heard from in other tournaments. He needs experience. He must take more pains with his shots in the pinches, and when he does learn a bit more there'll be a new figure in the championship class of tournaments and they won't be junior tournaments. He is the best young shot maker that the public course has produced since Jimmy Manion and Eddie Held formed a trust.

Tilden Picks Australians to Beat French Davis Cup Team, If Patterson Wins First Match

France's Chance Depends on Lacoste, Who Has Not Shown at His Best Form in Recent Contests, Champion Writes—Doubles Conceded to Antipodeans.

By William T. Tilden II.

FOREST HILLS, L. I., Sept. 4.—Australia meets France here today in what should prove to be one of the closest and most exciting Davis cup ties in the history of the competition. The right to challenge the United States for the treasured trophy rests on the outcome of today's matches at the West Side Tennis Club here, because Australia represents the American zone and France the European zone, as respective winners in their respective zones.

Friday—Gerald Patterson of Australia vs. Rene Lacoste of France; J. P. Anderson of Australia vs. Jean Borotra of France.

Saturday—Patterson and John Hawkes, Australia, vs. Lacoste and Borotra, France.

Monday—Patterson vs. Borotra; Anderson vs. Lacoste.

First Match Important.
It is an interesting schedule. One might say that the whole series hinges on the first match played. If Patterson beats Lacoste, it should remove all doubt about an Australian triumph. The Antipodeans would march to victory with ease.

On the other hand if Lacoste beats Patterson, this victory might be just the incentive to spur Borotra on to an inspired performance against Anderson.

Frankly I consider that the whole aspect of the series has changed in the last 10 days. I leaned toward a French victory in a very close match, up to a week ago. Now it looks to me like an Australian triumph.

2 St. Louis Dogs Entered in Trials

Patsy Rod Whitestone and Waterloo Palachio Shep Will Compete.

The field trial season of 1925-1926 will open at Gainesborough, Saskatchewan, Canada, on Labor day. The Manitoba Field Trial Club will run its thirty-ninth annual field trial for bird dogs, on prairie chickens, starting that day. Owing to the large entry, the trials will last four or five days. There are 110 dogs entered in the derby stake and 90 dogs in the all-age stake. While many of those entered will not start, there will be, nevertheless, a large number to start. The Manitoba Club will also run a championship stake. Dr. A. F. Stone of Bay City, Mich., and H. A. Tomlinson, Archdale, N. C., are the judges of the Manitoba trials.

Following the Manitoba trials, the All-American Field Trial Club will run its fifteenth annual trial for pointers and setters at Antler, N. D. This club will run derby, all-age, amateur championship and chicken championship stakes. Practically the same dogs will be run in both the Manitoba and All-

Miss Bailey in Semifinals of Tennis Tourney

Webster Girl Will Play Virginia Baer in Next Municipal Match.

By Davison Obeas.

Mrs. Anna Lindemann, former champion of the O'Fallon Park Club reached the semi-final round of the women's municipal tennis tournament at Forest Park by defeating Jane Willis, the girl star, 6-1, 6-1, yesterday.

In the first set, Miss Willis was very erratic. The match progressed she improved and forced a number of rallies. Miss Willis was bothered by Mrs. Lindemann's chop strokes and steadiness, which gave the O'Fallon player the victory.

Ruth Bailey, the Webster High School girl, advanced to the semifinals by eliminating Mrs. Robert Isaacson, 6-3, 6-1. Except for a short period of unsteadiness in the opening set, Miss Bailey kept a safe lead throughout.

Mrs. Myrtle Cassett of the Forest Park Club and Virginia Baer were the two other players to gain the semifinal round. Miss Baer defeated Mrs. Florence Probert while Mrs. Cassett gained a three-set victory over Fay Pasternak.

Only one match in the women's doubles was played. Virginia Baer and Violet Gleason, the municipal champions, reached the semi-final by defeating the team of Carlotta Wetmore and Catherine Butel, 6-1, 6-2.

The semifinal round in singles and doubles is scheduled to be completed tomorrow afternoon. In the singles Virginia Baer will oppose Ruth Bailey while Mrs. Lindemann opposes Mrs. Cassett. Miss Baer and Mrs. Lindemann are slight favorites to reach the finals.

Francis Outmet Acts as Jess Guilford's Adviser in Amateur.

OAKMONT, Pa., Sept. 4.—A great compliment paid Francis Outmet, former amateur golf champion, in the National open at Worcester, Mass., last June yesterday was returned in kind.

Jesse Guilford failed to qualify in the Eastern elimination or the open at Lido this summer by one stroke but he appeared in the championship proper and won on his famous fellow clubmen from Woodland, holding the pin and offering advice. Outmet finished well up in the open.

Outmet failed to qualify in the Amateur this year by a single stroke but he carried a five-foot putt on the first play-off hole, and he followed Jesse around yesterday helping wherever possible.

NEW YORK, Sept. 4.—Owners of candidates for the Futurity will have an opportunity to give their charges a public trial under colors down the chute on Monday, Joseph H. Widener, president of the Westchester Racing Association directed yesterday that a special race be run on for this, making a special holiday card. The conditions of the race follow:

The Futurity trial for 2-year-olds that are eligible to run in the Futurity. Purses $1500, of which $200 to the second horse and $100 to the third. Cobs to carry 125 pounds, fillies to carry 115 pounds. Six furlongs, straight course.

WRAY'S COLUMN

Not So Fantastic.

BABE RUTH offers to pitch every fifth game and outfield the remainder of the time.

Fans will laugh at that and sneer: "Grandstand play."

But it is not. It has happened, not with Ruth, but with old-time hurlers. Back in the heroic days of baseball, when a maximum of 12 players made up a ball club, pitchers did just that thing—pitched one day and played the outfield when not hurling.

Ruth is exceptionally equipped to fulfill his "grandstand play."

He was a pitcher before he was an outfielder and home-run slugger. In fact, the Boston club debated a long time whether it was advisable to use Babe as an outfielder or as a pitcher. It never occurred to the management to do just the thing that Babe now offers to attempt.

When hurling Ruth was one of the greatest of left-handers, and his hitting made him still more valuable.

Pitchers Are "Babied."

THIS is the day of "babying" ball players, to a certain extent. The pitcher is most babied of them all. Back there in the "days of real sport" Charles Radbourne of Providence pitched and won 28 games in 21 days!

That's the stuff they once made hurlers of. Babe's offer is not so heroic, in the light of Radbourne.

Not His Style.

CHARLEY CROUSE, who gained no little fame under the name of the fighting "Kid Regan," says of the Mandell Ward fight at Jefferson Barracks that a fighter can't be expected to give an exhibition for $750,000. The figures represent what Mandell was paid here and what he asked to fight Sid Terris in New York.

The sentiment doesn't apply to Regan himself. When the Kid was boxing he gave everything he had regardless of who was in front of him or what he was going to receive.

He was a real fighting man who had pride in his craft as well as in his ambition. That nature did not equip him with a strong enough body to explain his failure to climb to the top.

But he condoned deliberate pulling of punches in another fighter. That is not being true to his own nature. The Kid would have given his best in Mandell's place.

The promoter is really to blame. Knowingly or not, he sold the public a fight and delivered an exhibition—and an exhibition against a worn-out third-rater who was formerly managed by the manager of his opponent.

Get earnest effort out of such a combination, if you can.

Swimming Comes Back.

WITH a rush almost amazing, SWIMMING is with us again—all kinds of swimming. Time was when this city was a mecca for the natators. Ten, five and two mile swims in the river, national championships at Laughlin's Lake, indoor championships at Missouri A. C., national championship water polo games and other events were on the St. Louis program almost annually.

Then swimming folded up and went to sleep. Now it is with us once more.

It is a wonderful sport—the only pastime that combines recreation, physical development, self-protection and life-saving possibilities all in one. We know of no other athletic pastime that begins to equal swimming in utility. Every child should be taught it, as a protective measure.

It is perhaps the only sport to which women universally are adapted. It is the one form of competition in which women can approach men in accomplishment.

With men like Joe Forshaw, Chauncey Heath and others starting an educational campaign in favor of aquatics, SWIMMING ought to come back to stay.

their titles. Now Kearns may reverse history and ask the commission to make Paul Berlenbach, light-heavyweight titlist, honor the challenge of Owens.

Such was the indication given by Teddy Hayes, Kearns' first lieutenant, who passed through here yesterday en route to New York, bearing a $2500 check.

Owens, through Kearns, has broadcast challenges to Berlenbach, McTigue, Slattery and every other light heavyweight of rank, without success. He will meet Ad Stone, Philadelphia marine, here next Thursday.

Charles Mudge Wins W.A.A.U. One-Mile Title

Swimmer Fails to Equal Record at Coliseum Pool; Women's Race Tonight.

Charles Mudge, local aquatic star, won the gold medal emblematic of the Western A. A. U. one-mile swim championship last night at the Coliseum pool by beating a field of five opponents. Mudge made the distance in 27:10 9-10, 26 seconds above the record.

Mudge is one of the prominent swimmers in the city. He is a mile swimmer on the Mississippi River swim Labor day.

Frank Hutchinson of the Coliseum beat Adolf Furman of Forest Park Highlands by a foot for second place. Virgil Moulitch was fourth, Johnny Smith of East St. Louis, fifth and Mike Kusman of Marquette sixth.

A new Western A. A. U. record for the 150-yard back stroke was claimed for Homer Heideman of the North Side Y. M. C. A., who covered the distance in 1:57 3-10. The record, according to officials of the pool, was about 3:01.

Heideman finished about three feet ahead of Francis Stephens, these two being several yards in front at the finish.

Tonight the women's one-mile championship swim will be held at the Coliseum. The race will be run in two heats, four swimmers in the first and three in the second.

Grace Stewart, last year's winner, and Arvela Reesler, winner of the mile swim on the Meramec, will be the favorites to win tonight. Other entrants are Cecile Nimmo, Nora Fisher, Rose Wertheimer, Lucille Brandenberger and Mary Wright.

THE DIVINE LADY

"The Divine Lady" is the story, partly fiction but largely based on fact, of Lady Emma Hamilton, the Englishwoman of lowly birth who became one of the best known and most talked about women in all Europe.

CHAPTER EIGHT.

HE told him he was right, and resumed his stitching, and he watched her with his heart in his eyes—his divine lady, his child, his muse; all and one, and more that he could never put in words. It was a possession, Petrarch, and Dante, Beatrice, in the end of time, so most surely does Emma possess the man who will not let her die, who with strong magic caught and fixed ghost after ghost of her beauty upon canvas to make the world eternally her lover.

When he resumed the coat and she had gravely considered the effect, head on one side appraising, she got his pen and paper and sat down to her task. She wrote with ease now, and though the spelling was still deplorable the hand was no worse than many a woman of quality.

She had been strongly moved that day, always, indeed, strongly moved herself with the picture of her grief, and as she wrote the tears were so thick in her eyes that the letters swam before them.

"O my dearest, Greville, don't think on my past follies, think on my good, little as it has been. O Greville, when I think on your goodness, your tender heart, my heart is so full of gratitude that I want words to express it. But I have one happiness in view, which I am determined to practice, and that is evenness of temper. For indeed, I have thought so much of your amiable goodness when you have been tried to the utmost that I will, indeed, I will manage myself and try to be like Greville. There is nothing like being experienced. O Greville, think on me with kindness. Think on how many happy days weeks and years—I hope—we may yet pass. And indeed, did you know how much I love you, you would freely forgive me any passed quarrels. I have done nothing but think of you since, and O Greville, did you know when I so think, what thoughts, what tender thoughts, you would say 'Good God, and can Emma have such feeling sensibility? No, I never could think it. But now I may hope to bring her to conviction, and she may prove a valuable and amiable woman!' True, Greville, and you shall not be disappointed. I will be everything you can wish."

Her own pen had moved her to such a pitch by this time that she could write no more and was forced to borrow Romney's handkerchief to dry her streaming eyes before she could sign and fold the letter.

"It's all true, every word of it, and I don't expect ever to be happy more, but, oh, Mr. Romney, did you but know how good I feel at this moment!" said she, when the mistake was dispatched. "Never, never can I so burst out again. 'Tis the blessed quiet in this dear place that aids me, and your friendly presence. And now I must go. Wish me forgiveness, for without his love life is death to me and I would not ask to draw another breath."

She meant it to the full and her sweet face was like Congreve's "Mourning Bride," until by good fortune, as Romney took her to the door to call a coach for her, a Punch and Judy show came along the square, and she must needs delay to see the antics, and very shortly was crying for laughter as wholeheartedly as she had cried upstairs for sorrow.

The little crowd laughed with her, she leading with abandon that would have driven Greville mad had he seen it, and Romney laughing behind her with joy to see her cheered. These two children of the people were much at home with each other and with the people. Punch never held a merrier assembly. As she turned finally to go Romney called her back a moment.

"Gavin Hamilton was here this morning and told me he hears Sir William's coming back from Naples to see to the estates his wife left him. You may as well tell Greville, in case it's news to him."

She assented lightly, never guessing that destiny, with the subtle ironic masked in triviality, was at her heels, and it was not long before she was at the gate of Edgeware Row at last gay as a lark and confident of forgiveness; sure in this happy world all must be well, and Greville would be pleased to know his uncle was coming. No envious uncle here, but a sympathetic friend and with an eye for beauty keen as Greville's own. She promised herself an unbending elderly admirer. Romney remained alone to think of her angelic kindness and dear ways and to touch and retouch his sketch while the light lasted. He went forth then to his solitary chophouse. As for her, Greville was still sternly absent on her return, but her good, consoling mother had made a comfortable little room of lamb for supper and jam tarts to follow. If the evening was not perfect bliss, at least it was mighty endurable, and the jam tarts excellent to the appetite of twenty healthy years.

The letter reached Greville at the stately house of her grace the Duchess of Argyll and was delivered into his hand as he sat with two ladies so beautiful at their different ages that Paris might sooner have devoured his apples, gold though it was, than run the risk of mistake in awarding it to one or the other.

And lest it be believed that the remnant dresses all his ladies in rainbow stories, I point out that the elder was the famous Elizabeth Gunning—the double Duchess, as they called her—who had risen from direct poverty by the victorious attack of her loveliness on the embattled world, to the Duchess of Argyll, and the younger was Mrs. Crewe, that most fashionable of all beauties, of whom it was said in a world which knew not Emma that she alone equaled or excelled the perfections of Elizabeth Gunning in the days when she took the town by storm; a sweet, sleepy-eyed beauty, gentle persuasion in every look, and a little delicate malice to season the honey with ginger.

The ladies were dressed for a court, and Greville, very much at home in that house, was wearing a chain of diamonds to better advantage about Mrs. Crewe's shoulders when the letter made its appearance, the Duchess commenting on his fine taste.

"There's no man I know like you for taste, Greville," says her gracious grace. "The Hamiltons are like that. How is it you pick up all these notions? No wonder you're fastidious."

He put the letter carefully in his pocket with a spasm of anger that she should dare pursue him there, and stood back to view his work.

"Mrs. Crewe sets it off even better than she did the other fashions. As to my taste, 'tis formed on the antique, and what I've done is by no means original. Thus the Roman Empress Faustina disposed her jewels to catch the eyes of her gladiator lover when she was wearing of her philosophic husband! Ah, madam, are not women the same in all ages?"

"They suit themselves to the men, who also don't change, for all I see. And if the Emperor was as dull as our philosophers today, I excuse her majesty." Thus the Duchess.

"One may be dull without the excuse of philosophy to avert it," replied Mrs. Crewe at the mirror, looking at her long swan's throat, glorious with diamonds. "Do but think of the Duke of Devonshire. It gives me an indigestion to look at him. It runs in families. 'Tis because Mr. Greville is half Hamilton that he's such highly instructive company."

She shot a little ironic glance at him from under long lashes. The lady knew very well that her own one who "could gaze without malice on Amoret's eyes"—eyes which had settled the fate of not lovers only but of more than one contested election, for she had but to look upon the happy voters and they were won. Greville hated political women, and she knew it. Hence the little scratch, a pat with velvet paw. But he was stammered to discomfort, nevertheless, for Mrs. Crewe was a thermometer of measuring the liking of society, and had a smile graduated to its exact temperature. Could it be possible the great world began to find him a little tedious, a little arriere? He was born older than any of them to begin with and had relished a fustian when others were gambling, tripping and wasting, and it was not always easy to conceal that their amusements palled on him. And for the last three years he had permitted himself to drop rather more into obscurity with his delightful pupil than his reason could approve. She was troublesome sometimes, but yet her amazing progress in the graces and accomplishments she owed him and the amusement and interest. And the little house in Edgeware Row was absolute comfort. The dish, chosen by himself, and cooked perfectly in his own kitchen, his liking and health better than the sumptuous banquets of the great houses, and Emma's company, which required no tip-toe courtesy or courting, allowed him to stand at ease in a way impossible with the fashionable ladies, who welcomed him, perhaps a shade more coldly than formerly. But—if he were dropping out? To be forgotten is a much less easy process than forgetting, and Mr. Greville must be received with acclaim wherever he deigned to show himself. Was his season slipping by? He winced. She was not worth it. Not a day, not an hour should she stand in his light if he were once persuaded of that. And economize as she would, still his taste for the antique led him into irretrievable expense. That matter, too, was becoming urgent.

He must control his tendency to pontificate. Sir William had warned him of it once half jesting—Sir William, who was 29 years younger for all the remorseless parish register.

He broke up his collegiate calm into smiles on the very fear of disapproval, and executed a little adoration of Mrs. Crewe, yet not enough to compel the Duchess to recall her own age. They discussed the company to appear at the Court, and Mrs. Crewe flung another softly feathered dart.

"Miss Middleton will be there," says she. "I met Lady Middleton this afternoon—a woman I swallow with difficulty. She detained me a whole 15 minutes to hear the story of the latest heart Miss Middleton has strung with the other scalps at her girdle. 'A most desirable prospect, my dear—she mimicked the proud, mother—' wealth, devotion, everything but family. The father is Wade, the successful Irish merchant. Lord! says I, what signifies family nowadays? If money is not worth a little wading in the mud, what is the use of a pedigree? To hide discomfort. He knew perfectly well what was in the air. He, the fastidious, the condescending, had distinguished Miss Middleton with languid attentions. Or all the heiresses he had scanned during the past three years she appeared the most desirable, and marriage with her the least unpleasant alternative. And the so-called friends who called on her, and waited expectant, though it would be decidedly more amusing (they owned) to see the gold cup slip from his lip and his fastidious gentleman left in the lurch, if the lack should turn that way."

"I dine there tomorrow and shall hear the news," he said easily. "Lord, how well you mimic Lady Middleton, madam! Had she no more news for you?"

"There's no man I know like you, sir, for taste, Greville," says her gracious grace. "The Hamiltons are like that. How is it you pick up all these notions? No wonder you're fastidious."

Why, yes, now I think of it! I had forgot, but no doubt you know it. She said she had met Gavin Hamilton, suddenly back from Italy, and he told her that the King never forgives his foster brother."

He alluded to the fact that Lady Archibald Hamilton, Sir William's mother, had been mistress in title to Frederick, Prince of Wales, George III's father, a circumstance which had much advantaged Sir William in life.

"I know no one with more agreeable manners," she added. "In society he has all the graces of a young man, and yet the servants as at home with him. I hope with all my heart he finds a charming wife awaiting him in England. He wants an Ambassador in that big villa in Naples, and I know no man who could find a more agreeable husband to a sensible woman. He can't expect to find a saint like your late aunt, Greville, but not many women would refuse a man of his temper. Indeed, I have one in my mind."

Greville, quivering with uneasiness, begged to hear the name, but she shook her head, laughing. "No, no. These things are spoiled if told, but I shall throw them together with all the art I can muster."

"What her grace deems is done!" Mr. Greville said, bowing gallantly. "My uncle will be infinitely indebted."

He waited until the ladies graciously dismissed him, and then betook himself to his club, so lost in thought that Emma's letter lay totally forgotten in his pocket.

Sir William coming home! Certainly he would be glad personally, but yet the thought was full of unpleasant possibilities. He sat down in a quiet corner as far removed from acquaintances as possible, and chafed his thoughts in his own methodic manner.

ACQUIRING A TRIM FOOT

By LUCREZIA BORI

LUCREZIA BORI

DO you really understand the importance of caring for your feet after the most approved methods?

I ask if you really understand, because many women who think they look after their feet properly, simply do not understand this more or less simple matter.

Washing your feet daily, drying them carefully, and wearing fresh perfectly clean stockings and keeping your nails the proper length is not all that is necessary. You may do all this and still do your feet the greatest injustice by squeezing them into shoes that were never meant for them.

You want to be smartly shod, of course. But do not let this desire overrule your common-sense in the matter of picking shoes. For instance, if you like a long, narrow pump, do not insist upon this even if your feet are of the broad, wider type. Study the type of your feet and choose your shoes accordingly.

The time has passed when most sensible shoes were unlovely to look at. Now the best shoes are so well made and designed with an eye to symmetry and beauty that they can combine the most sensible aspects and be beautiful and easy to wear at the same time.

High heels are very pretty in their proper places, but, for one, before you put your feet in the am much in favor of a lower heel for walking and everyday wear. The heel need not be of the very flat, low, Oxford type if you do not find it most becoming. There are Cuban heels and various medium heels that are sensible and pretty. Wear these during the day, and when you dress for the evening slip on the most fragile, frivolous slippers you please, providing they fit you comfortably.

Now, if your feet ache after a long day when you have done more than your usual amount of walking or standing, try the following treatment. You need only three simple aids as follows:

A footbath filled with hot water, Castile or any other pure soap. Two handfuls of bran. First make a latherly soapuds with the hot water and soap. Just before you put your feet in the footbath put in the two handfuls of bran. The bran will help stimulate circulation and make your feet feel more rested. If you wish, rinse them in a second clear hot water bath afterward.

Dry your feet thoroughly and complete the feeling of refreshment by donning fresh stockings and shoes of a different type from the ones you have worn all day. Changing shoes helps wonderfully in resting your feet.

PLAIN CAKE INCOGNITO. Stir a half cup of butter or a substitute until creamy, then work in one and one-third cups sugar, a half teaspoon desired flavoring and one-eighth teaspoon salt. Gradually cream in four egg whites, one at a time, unbeaten. Sift together two and one-fourth cups flour and three teaspoons baking powder and add alternately with two-thirds cup milk, beat, transfer to a medium sized oiled dripping pan and bake 35 to 40 minutes in a moderately hot oven, 350 to 375 degrees F. Frost as desired and cut into squares, or bake in cup cake pans, or in three layers.

This can be used to make marble cake, chocolate and silver cake, white cocoanut cake or white nut and raisin cake. Use the yolks for custard or vegetable flavored custard.

WHOLE WHEAT GRIDDLE CAKES. Mix two and three-fourths cups whole wheat flour, four teaspoon baking powder, one teaspoon salt and two tablespoons sugar. Beat an egg, add one pint of milk and pour into the first mixture, beating constantly. Then add two tablespoons melted fat and try as usual on a griddle, turning the cakes as soon as they are covered with bubbles. Serve with any kind of syrup, melted jelly or honey.

Washing Art Moulins. When you wash the art moulins curtains, do not use warm water. Make a suds with hot water and good soap or flakes and when almost cold put in the curtains and wash at once. To see the colors, add salt for black or blue. A little vinegar will set green, and for pink or the purple tones use ammonia. Rinse thoroughly, and hang in shade to avoid fading of colors.

Vain man runs headlong to caprice, Impelled by passion and with folly blind.

The Chameleon

ARE you a chameleon—appearing different to each who looks at you or knows you? The chameleon changes color so rapidly that it's hard to determine just what he really does look like or what color he really is. And all of us are more or less chameleons in the eyes of those who know us.

To your mother you're always her "little girl." To her you are always "my baby" no matter if you're fifty and a mother yourself. To him who lays siege to your heart you're "my queen" and in his eyes you have all the regal attributes and loveliness and dignities one concedes to a real queen. To some of your girl friends "that little cat."

When you sit down and wonder about it, doesn't it seem to each you're different, yet to yourself you're just you. Are you really? A little of each, of course, but which is you? How do you really appear to your own self? Think it's worth while!

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

Comfort for the Sick. The invalid will find an artist's easel very useful for holding reading matter and medicine glasses as it will extend slightly over the edge of the bed.

To Lay Matting. Before laying the new matting, thoroughly wet it with a cloth that has been dipped into hot water in which a cup of salt has been dissolved. It then becomes pliable and can be turned under without breaking. This makes a neater finish than cutting exactly to fit and the matting for further use in a different shaped room.

In Case of Fire. Keep a cool head. Call the fire department. Close doors and windows. A wet broom, rug or blanket is a better aid to fire-fighters than a bucket of water, which often scatters a blaze.

To escape from a smoke-filled room wet the nostrils with saliva if a wet cloth is not accessible, cover the head and crawl to the exit.

Washing Art Moulins. When you wash the art moulins curtains, do not use warm water. Make a suds with hot water and good soap or flakes and when almost cold put in the curtains and wash at once. To see the colors, add salt for black or blue. A little vinegar will set green, and for pink or the purple tones use ammonia. Rinse thoroughly, and hang in shade to avoid fading of colors.

Vain man runs headlong to caprice, Impelled by passion and with folly blind.

Child Management

By DR. D. A. THOM.

Issued to the Post-Dispatch by the Children's Bureau of the U. S. Department of Labor.

No. 14.—THE CHILD'S ENVIRONMENT.

THE question, which is the more important, heredity or environment, has provoked endless discussion. "He's just like his father, and you can't do a thing with him" accounts to some people, frequently the mother's people, for all the bad traits a child may show. Others are sure that, no matter what his parents may have been, every child starts fresh and the conditions which surround him determine absolutely what he will be. Everyone knows that children from degraded homes who have been adopted by well-to-do families and have been given every advantage have turned out some disgracefully and some so to make worth while everything that has been done for them. What makes the difference in result? Heredity? Perhaps. As the proverb has it, "You can't make a silk purse out of a sow's ear." Environment? Perhaps also, some children who were surrounded by bad conditions during their early years were almost started in unfortunate habits before they were transplanted. Moreover, the new conditions, supposedly better, may have been better in lodging, food and clothing only. The child may have been brought up, in fact, by a feeble-minded nurse and the friends she met in the park, or may have led a lonely life starved of affection and been seen by his foster mother only when her social engagements permitted her to play with the child for a little while as she might with a doll.

After all it is useless to attempt to settle whether heredity or environment is the more important. Every living being is affected by both. The practical question is what may be done to control both so as to secure the best results.

A New Washub. There are three compartments in a new laundry tub and the water faucet is mounted in the center and can be turned to fill any one of them.

After all it is useless to attempt to settle whether heredity or environment is the more important. Every living being is affected by both. The practical question is what may be done to control both so as to secure the best results.
